Rush, Morgan hold back

Mayor Oakley to seek re-election

Mayor William M. Oakley officially threw his hat into the ring as the first announced candidate for mayor of Romulus. A sellout crowd of supporters celebrating St. Patrick's Day last Saturday night heard the mayor's announcement at the Progressive Hall in Romulus.

The crowd, estimated at 500 people, heard the mayor call for another term of "responsive, professional city government" under his leadership.

The size of and response from the crowd prompted the mayor to add, "If the crowds get any bigger, we'll have to build another hall to accommodate everyone."

Citizens representing a broad cross-section of Romulus were in attendance at the dance, as well as city council members Mary Ann Banks, Ray Cantrell, and Gerry Canejo, and other elected officials from surrounding communities.

With Oakley's announcement, other mayoral candidates are expected to follow suit before the filing deadline of July 23, 1979.

The crucial primary election this year is on Monday, September 10, 1979.

Names of the other possible candidates for mayor have been heard in political quarters recently. They include former Mayor James Steward, Councilman Gerry Canejo, former Treasurer John Lewkowicz, Mel Morgan and Ed Rush.

Figuring most prominently in speculation are Rush and Morgan. Rush is the young owner of Rush Flowers. His name appeared in headlines several months ago when he took the city to court on an alleged closed council session. He also voiced strong concern over the tape of the session which was "lost" for several days before it emerged in the clerk's office.

Contacted for comment on his running for mayor, Rush said, "There's a good possibility that I may run for some elective office. I don't like what I've been hearing and seeing lately in Romulus."

Rush said he wanted it made plain that stories circulating around the city implying that he had made a "deal" to run for mayor were unfounded.

"I haven't made any deal. My reputation is worth more than that," he declared. "The solution to Romulus' troubles is not who runs for mayor, but what can be worked out to help the city."

Rush contended the city was going to lose some $2 million in funds this fiscal year, resulting in the layoff of 40 city employees by July 1.

Rush said he did not believe that Mayor William M. Oakley was providing the necessary leadership to push the city forward.

Morgan, developer of Morgan Manor Apartments and Metro Plaza office building on Wayne Road, told the Roman, "It's too early right now. There's a lot of talking and a lot of people have asked me to run. But, it's premature now to give a definite answer."

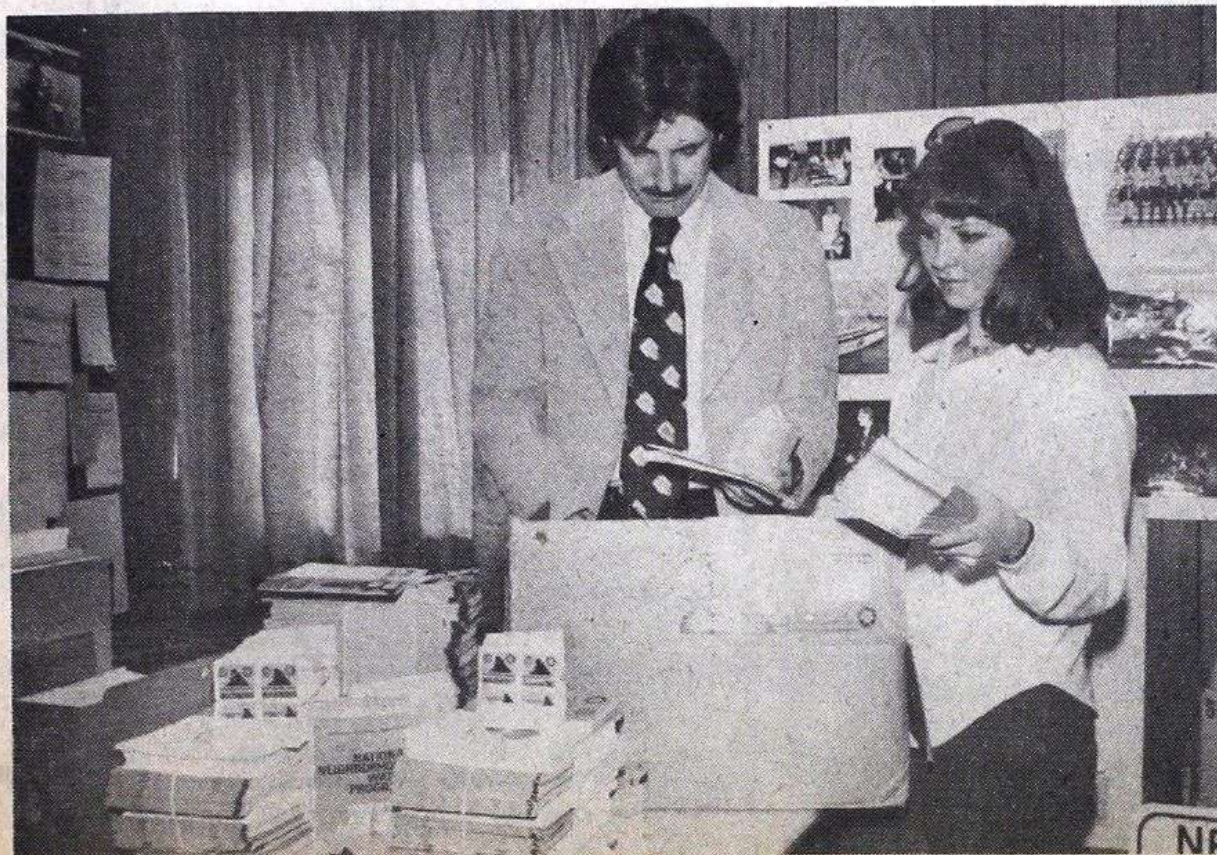

He said many meetings have been held over the last six months by politically-oriented organizations in the city on possible candidates for public office.

"Right now it's a lot of talking and no action," he said.

Crime fighters get materials

Wayne County Sheriff Deputy Jerry Billiter is shown opening a long-awaited shipment of Neighborhood Watch materials with Pam Fraser, a resident of the Wyncleft Estates Subdivision. The booklets, mailed from Washington, D.C. several weeks ago, are basic to the crime prevention program recently begun in that residential area and a like program in the Meadows Subdivision. Wyncleft residents are encouraged to attend the next important organizational meeting at the Romulus High School on Wednesday, March 28, 1979 at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium. At that time, the materials will be distributed, block captains organized and the many facets of the crime prevention program explained. (Photo by Jay Young.)

Construction on I-275 pending

Are noise walls any good?

Planned construction of noise abatement walls at two locations on I-275 between Ford Road and Monroe is awaiting the input of residents living along the new thoroughfare.

Eventual construction of the two noise abatement walls will depend upon the results of studies by the state and federal governments and a public hearing in Romulus last week.

The public hearing at Romulus City Hall centered on the need for noise abatement walls to be erected along I-275.

Representatives from the public involvement section of the Michigan Department of Transportation conducted the hearing to allow local residents to voice their opinions about noise generated by the traffic on the new superhighway.

According to Jack Morgan, spokesman for the highway department, the state is proposing to build two large concrete walls, 14-18 feet high, on the west right-of-way next to the WestPoint Manor Trailer Park in Westland and the Canton Commons Apartments in Canton.

According to state officials, those two locations existed prior to the opening of the interstate in January, 1977 and have the largest concentration of residential units along the 26-mile stretch. Noise in the two areas exceed the decibel levels permitted by federal guidelines they said.

A similar study resulted in 23,000 feet of noise wall being built along I-275 between M-153 and Eight Mile Road in 1978.

The Federal Highway Administration, which governs interstate highway construction, has set a decibel level of 70 as the maximum allowed for residential areas. The present noise levels generated by I-275 are estimated at 75-77 DBs (decibels). By comparison, normal speech is 60 DBs, a snowmobile produces 115 DBs and a jet aircraft on take-off may reach 140 DBs.

By 1990, experts predict 76 to 82 DBs produced along the right-of-way of the study area. With the construction of the noise walls, officials say the noise levels will fall below the federal standards.

Although the meeting was called to discuss the two proposed projects in neighboring cities many Romulus residents in attendance voiced their concerns about noise and safety along the highway as it passes through the southwest portion of Romulus.

Several residents from the portion of the city, bounded by the N&W railroad and I-94, complained that they have lived through years of noise and dust and near-disasters along I-94 without receiving any relief from the state or the federal government. Now, with the construction of I-275 on the west, many said they felt the state's action is coming too late.

One resident, Gerald Killingbeck, who said he has lived near I-94, between I-275 and Wayne Road for 34 years, compared the state's action now as "rubbing salt into the wounds," referring to any action only being taken within the last two years.

Fred Wardell, who lives along I-94 east of Ozga, said noise wasn't the only undesirable side effect produced by superhighways. He gave several examples of motorists waking him in the middle of the night demanding aid or motorcyclists using his yard as a rallying point.

State officials at the meeting assured Romulus residents further studies will be conducted along I-275 and I-94 which may result in noise abatement walls being built there in the future.

A final decision on the two walls will come in the next two months. Construction is expected to begin in late summer if the decision is favorable. The cost of the projects is estimated to be over $750,000.

director, Mahalak said he was under the impression that problems with the Trouton Drain had been resolved.

"I got this impression from talking to the members of the Department of Natural Resources investigating the cause of our concern," his letter stated to Tanner.

Mahalak's letter asked "appropriate action be taken by the Department of Natural Resources once and for all" to ease the plight of residents who suffer from the odor and threat to their health.

In his letter, Mahalak also charged the DNR with dragging its feet and being responsible for "allowing the continual pollution and harassment to the residents of the affected area."

Stating that the condition should not be allowed to continue, the legislator declared, "Appropriate action must be taken to insure that in the future the conditions will cease forever."

Mahalak's letter concluded with, "I visualize this as our only alternative."

Mahalak rips DNR over Trouton Drain

Continued problems with the Trouton Drain by Romulus residents has prompted Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus) to issue a blistering attack on the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) demanding appropriate action.

New housing commission is appointed

The recent firing of the head of the Romulus Housing Commission, Ernest Davis, by Mayor William M. Oakley was capped by his appointment of a new commission, one narrowly recognized last week by city council.

In a memorandum to council, the mayor had requested that body to pass a resolution acknowledging the new appointments and terms "for the official record."

By a 4-3 vote, council defeated Councilwoman Beverly McAnally's motion to table action on the mayor's request, stating it was not a matter for that body to act upon.

A motion by Councilman Ray Cantrell, seconded by Councilman Junior Block, was approved and which acknowledged the mayor's request, making it a part of the official record.

Named by new commission members, most of whom were actually reappointed by the mayor, to replace Davis as commission head was Mrs. Zeffie Beaman. Her term will expire Feb. 26, 1984.

Other members appointed to the commission were: Peter Bergeron, Jr., who will serve until Feb. 26, 1980; Hugh Hulbert, serving until Feb. 26, 1981; Oliver Warren, serving until Feb. 26, 1982; and Mrs. Theresa Washington, whose term expires Feb. 26, 1983.

Davis and the former commission had feuded for quite some time, reportedly over his inability to administer commission programs funded by federal grants and for failing to obtain such grants.

Davis, on the other hand, was unhappy with the mayor's refusal to reappoint commission members after his election to office. He had contended commission members Warren, Washington and Beaman were not officially qualified to serve on the body.

Oakley, prior to firing Davis, had said the commission head "was a fine man and meant well", but handled his duties in a confusing manner.

Seeks stamp

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has joined with several House colleagues in another effort to have a commemorative postage stamp issued in honor of General Casimir Pulaski.

Congressman Ford and others introduced legislation last year calling for a General Pulaski commemorative stamp, but the Postal Service responded only with a commemorative postal card, scheduled for issuance this year.

3 City streets will be paved

Three of the main thoroughfares in Romulus will be resurfaced by the Wayne County Road Commission following last week's approval by city council for Mayor William M. Oakley to sign contracts for the work.

Slated for resurfacing are: Wayne Road between I-94 and Smith Road; Van Born Road between Wayne

Road and Hannan Road; and Inkster Road between Eureka Road and Pennsylvania Road.

According to the mayor's memorandum to council asking for its approval, funds will be obtained from the city budget during the fiscal year in which the individual projects are undertaken.

New rescue van for Romulus

Mayor William M. Oakley and Fire Chief John Wilhide proudly pose before one of the Romulus Fire Department's two new fire rescue vans recently purchased by the city for $6,500 each. The one-ton capacity vans are designed to be used for dispatching EMT (emergency medical technician) teams to accidents or fire scenes to administer first aid until an ambulance arrives. The truck's large storage area can also be used to transport large extrication equipment, such as the "jaws of life" and K-12 power saws, which can cut through steel. The city currently has six fully-trained EMT's on the force, with several more volunteers enrolled in the 120-hour emergency medical program. Any Romulus resident, 18 years of age or older, is encouraged to pick up an application to Romulus' volunteer fire department at Station No. 4, 28777 Eureka Rd., from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Chief Wilhide said. Things that matter

I like bumper stickers. They tell everybody where you stand. Show me a clean bumper, and I'll show you a person behind the wheel who is afraid to go out on a limb for anything.

Either that or the guy and his wife don't share the same ideas. She may want to "honk if you love Jesus," while honking drivers bug him. In that case, you go without the bumper sticker.

I once pulled up at a red light behind a car carrying a "Honk If You Love Jesus" bumper sticker.

I honked — whereupon the driver rolled down the window of his car, stuck his head out and yelled, "You dumb jerk, don't you see the light is red?"

Lately, I've seen a bumper sticker which says, "If you love Jesus, tithe. Anyone can honk." This admonition to put your money where your horn is may be an improvement on the other, but it leaves a lot of us out of the game.

The bumper sticker that I'd really like to see displayed on cars is:

I AM A COURTEOUS DRIVER. I have an idea that most bad driving can be traced to discourtesy. We hide behind our anonymity when we're behind the wheel. Nobody knows who we are, so we're as boorish as we please. We do things we would never do if others knew who we were.

Another thing I learned in Psychology 101 is: We all hate to be "found out." Once we go on record as claiming to be something or other, we're ashamed to be caught with our petticoat showing.

The answer, therefore, is to get people to put bumper stickers on their car which say, "I Am a Courteous Driver." Having proclaimed this to the world, we will live in fear of being unmasked as hypocrites or frauds. Consequently, we will find that our driving will improve overnight.

Once the idea catches on, everybody will start wondering about the manners and civility of the driver who doesn't display the "I Am a Courteous Driver" sticker on his bumper. He'll get dirty looks from other drivers.

And since nobody likes to have his manners and civility under suspicion, eventually everyone will capitulate — who wants to be odd man out? — and our highways will be filled with drivers trying to live up to their estimates of themselves as courteous drivers.

Then we can watch accidents — and highway nerves — take a big drop.

In Christian Century magazine, Martin Marty has made a list of things he'll be glad to be rid of when the 1970's are over.

He'll be happy to say goodbye to, among other things, "getting in touch with our feelings," the electronic church, Scientology, Anita Bryant (pro and con), Billy Carter, Club Med, Tom Snyder and the Annie Hall look.

Marty is right (as usual) about most of the things on his list, but not even Marty is perfect.

On his "Good Riddance to All That" list he includes "sexist language in liturgy" and "esthete Episcopalians' complaints about their new prayerbook."

Can you survive?

(This is the fourth in a series of 12-articles, entitled Can You Survive, containing survival tips from the U.S. Air Force Survival School at Fairchild Air Force Base, Wash.)

The temperature is near zero degrees Fahrenheit. There is approximately eight inches of snow on the ground. You have been hiking cross-country and are approximately two hours from your camp when you encounter a small stream. In your attempts to cross this barrier, you fall in and become totally immersed.

WOULD YOU

A. Get out of the water and hurry on to your camp.

B. Get out of the water and squeeze the moisture out of the clothing and then continue on to camp.

C. Get out of the water. Roll in the snow and then brush it off. Gather fire-starting materials and build a fire to warm yourself and dry out before continuing on to camp.

D. Get out of the water and immediately begin vigorous exercise to warm up your body.

TO SURVIVE

(C) offers the best emergency action. By rolling in the snow, it acts as blotter and absorbs some moisture and is removed when the snow is brushed off. Considering the distance to camp and the weather, building a fire to warm yourself and to dry out is the best avenue to take, if you want to survive.

None of the remaining alternatives offer a satisfactory solution to insure your survival in the face of prevailing conditions. Incapacitating symptoms of hypothermia are almost certain to occur, if any of these actions are selected. (A service of your local Air Force recruiter.)

Product liability bill doesn't benefit buyer

Product liability model legislation proposed by the U.S. Department of Commerce is not in the consumers' interest, said Linda Joy, executive director of the Michigan Consumers Council.

Testifying at a Detroit hearing, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Joy urged the Department to re-examine the need for the model legislation.

"If we examine the cost-benefit ratio, it is apparent that the consumer cost would be tremendous and the benefits virtually nonexistent," she said.

Product liability refers to the manufacturer's responsibility when a consumer is injured by a defective product. Many consumer groups, including the Michigan Consumers Council, are afraid any change in the present legal status would limit an injured consumer's ability to sue for damages.

Joy drew the department's attention to the product liability issue recently raised in Michigan.

"Manufacturers, merchants and insurers announced to the Michigan Legislature more than two years ago that product liability had reached crisis proportions," she said. "Yet, advocates of reform in the law were unable to demonstrate that a product liability crisis really exists. They also were unable to show the changes they advocated would improve the situation."

"In short, the entire product liability 'crisis' seems to be suffering from a major credibility problem."

Drastic reforms in tort law were not passed in Michigan, Joy believes, because the legislature was not convinced there was a crisis.

Joy pointed out that the President's Commission on Product Safety as long ago as 1970 estimated the annual cost of product-related injuries may exceed $5.5 billion, in addition to the cost in human terms.

"It would appear the real crisis is the number of consumer injuries received each year due to defective products in the marketplace," she said.

HAYFEVER & CHIROPRACTIC

Hay fever is most uncomfortable to the person afflicted with it. It is not only personally distressing, but often is socially embarrassing, too. It limits the usual efficiency of the individual who has it.

Actually, hay fever is an acute inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the nasal passages. In some cases, the inflammation may extend down into the bronchi. It is accompanied by thin watery discharges from the nose. The membranes lining the nasal passages become swollen and normal breathing becomes difficult.

Hay fever is triggered by a variety of external influences such as flower or grass pollens, reaction to chemical substances or even to animal substances. The person with hay fever very often identifies the triggering intruder and avoids contact whenever possible.

The first onslaught of hay fever brings with it violent, often uncontrollable sneezing. The eyes become red and irritated. The watery discharge from the nose becomes a consistent annoying element and even restful sleep is affected.

Chiropractic is an excellent procedure for restoring the normal health of the individual afflicted with hay fever. To the individual who has never experienced chiropractic, a simple but important question is raised: How can an adjustment to the spine get rid of a problem such as hay fever?

Hay fever very often responds favorably to chiropractic care. When the chiropractor examines his hay fever patient, he locates the vertebral subluxations or misalignments. After this thorough process, he adjusts the spine, thus, restoring normal nerve transmission from the brain through the spinal column to all parts of the body.

As the proper and normal nerve transmission is re-established, good health may be anticipated. The nerves which control the respiratory system emit from the spine. When these nerves transmit the proper information from the brain, it means the intrusion of foreign particles are dealt with in a normal and orderly fashion by the body.

The period of time required for normal restoration of good health, of course, varies from patient to patient. In situations where the patient has had running bouts with hay fever over several seasons extending over a number of years, he should seek chiropractic care ahead of need. This should be a period of weeks or even months before he anticipates being afflicted with hay fever.

Through a series of well-defined chiropractic adjustments, the patient can then anticipate a higher degree of resistance to the condition.

Chiropractic utilizes the inherent recuperative ability of the body to restore itself. When the chiropractor adjusts the spine, he opens the nerve pathways so there is proper and consistent nerve transmission; as this is accomplished, good health results.

In the treatment of hay fever, it is well to remember an important part of your Doctor of Chiropractic's practice is the health maintenance program. Through regular chiropractic checkups and adjustment when needed, many conditions which could conceivably arise will be avoided or most certainly be minimized.

It is important to have regular chiropractic care on the schedule your Doctor of Chiropractic recommends. By following his well-considered advice, you will find good health naturally without the influence of drugs.

Plan now for regular care with your Doctor of Chiropractic. He will be happy to explain all of his procedures to you in easily understood terms. Chiropractors, the world over, are expressly interested in letting their patients know the importance of natural health care.

Whether your condition is hay fever or trauma introduced by an automobile accident or fall, see your Doctor of Chiropractic. As a specialist in the world's largest natural healing art, he stands ready to be of service to you.

Local Rotary Anns slate fashion show

The fourth annual Rotary Ann spring fashion show will be held in the fall this year, according to Ruth Hopson, chairperson of this year's event.

The benefit fashion show, which attracts hundreds of area residents, each year, is the primary money-raising activity of the "Anns", the women's auxiliary arm of the Rotary Club.

Money raised by the $2 admission tickets last year was used to provide Easter baskets for residents of the Apple Tree Lane Convalescent Home in Romulus as well as a contribution to the Elaine Rishel medical trust fund.

This year the show will be held Wednesday, Sept. 12 at 7 p.m. at the Romulus High School in the fall because the amount and variety of fall and winter clothes is greater than in the spring, affording the opportunity for a bigger event.

Kureth's Apparel Shop of Belleville will again host the show this year. The theme will be "Fashion's Changing Colors" and will be written by Kathie Rennell, fashion commentator at the popular local shop. Door prizes and merchandise discounts will again be featured.

In brief

Earl Lamb to be a honored

A banquet honoring Earl L. Lamb for more than 25 years of service to the Romulus community will be held March 22 at 6:30 p.m. This recognition dinner sponsored by the Romulus Help Center will take place at the Colonial House at 10780 S. Telegraph Rd. in Taylor.

Lamb began his service in Romulus as a high school chemistry teacher in 1951. Before ending his tenure with the schools twenty five years later, he touched the lives of many students as a teacher, an assistant principal and as a friend and counselor.

In 1971, Lamb joined a mayors committee established to study the problems of youth in the community. The committee chaired by Lamb did more than talk about needs and problems. Volunteer crisis counseling, making referrals and finding jobs for youth, were among the early services developed.

Through persistent efforts, funding was obtained in 1973 to provide substance abuse counseling. Two years later, grants were approved to make available homemaker and chore services to senior citizens.

Lamb served as chairman of The Romulus Help Center's Board from the time of incorporation on Oct. 5, 1971 until his retirement from the board in November 1978.

The public is invited to participate in the evening program honoring Lamb. Dinner reservations can be made by calling 941-7970.

Lenten dinner scheduled

"Mountains and Mole Hills" will be the topic surveyed by guest speaker Dr. Frederick C. Bosburg at this week's Mid-week Lenten Series of the Community United Methodist Church of Romulus.

Dr. Bosburg's discussion of Luke 9:28-37 will be at 7:15 p.m. tomorrow. A pot luck dinner at 6:30 p.m. will precede the worship program.

City-School Day set

Friday, April 6, 1979 has been designated City-School Day in Romulus in recognition of the cooperation between the city and school district over the past year. The special day was proclaimed at a city council meeting last week by Mayor William M. Oakley. The resolution, unanimously adopted by the city council, states in part, that the citizens of the city have been well-served since the founding of

In coming weeks, Dale Miller, minister of the Stony Creek United Methodist Church, will bring his 12-piece stage band and 4-member sacred dance group on March 29, and the Covenant Players will dramatize Lenten and evangelism themes on April 5.

The church is meeting in the elementary school building at 1165 Olive St., across from the church building.

a joint city-school committee nearly one year ago. The day will be celebrated by a "Romulus Night at the Silverdome" basketball game, in which Oakley and school board President Wayne Avery will present Piston guard and city resident John Long with certificates of commendation. Tickets for the event are only $6 and are on sale at all Romulus schools and city hall.

19 Building Permits issued

A total of 19 building permits of all types was issued during February, 1979, by the Romulus Building Department, representing a total of $166,921.38 in construction and work performed.

A breakdown of permits issued showed: one - single-family homes; one - buildings demolished; 11 - additions and alterations; and six - signs. Fees charged for the 19 permits totalled $839.

Womens softball to start

The Romulus Recreation Department has announced that team openings are still available for the 1979 season for the women's softball league. Any teams interested in participating this year should contact the recreation department as soon as possible at 941-0666, extension 67.

The recreation department also announced that a new "open league" will be initiated this year as a pilot program. This league is for males 18 years of age and older. Games will be played on Friday nights at Elmer Johnson Park.

Since the league is open, no restrictions will be made on residency. Teams interested in entering the league for the 1979 season should contact the recreation department as soon as possible.

Could stop annexation by Romulus

VB petition drive would put charter twp. issue to vote

A petition drive reportedly is underway which will seek to have the question of whether Van Buren Township should change to a charter type township government put on the ballot for voters to decide.

Recently, the township board voted to adopt a resolution of intent to become a charter township. The board must wait 60 days after Feb. 13 to take action on the resolution as required by state law.

Clerk Doreen Craven said that last Wednesday she compiled with a request by Harry Martin and provided him with petitions of disagreement on the proposed change to a charter township status.

The clerk said Martin has until April 13 to come up with 299 valid signatures, 10 percent of the number of votes cast for the office of supervisor in the last general election (2,989).

If the petition drive is successful, she explained, future action on the matter by the township board would be stopped until the proposal could be put on the ballot. That would most likely be the August 1980 primary election, she said.

One of the reasons some members of the township board, including Sup. Pat Cullin, are in favor of the change to charter township status is the protection it will afford under state law from annexation by its neighboring cities, most likely Romulus and Belleville.

However, some township residents are skeptical because they could be taxed up to five mills under a charter township instead of the one mill they are paying now under a general law township type of government.

However, Cullin called attention to the continued threat of annexation. (Currently, two cases involving Belleville are in the courts.) She explained that residents of portions of Van Buren annexed by cities could be taxes up to 15 mills, or three times that under a charter township.

Compounding the situation is the threat of annexation during the period until August 1980 should the petition drive for a referendum vote be successful. Richard G. James, township attorney, advised the board that state law forbids annexation to take place during the period until township voters decide on the matter at the 1980 election.

Martin is the former chairman of the public safety commission and who resigned that post under pressure when four members of the township demanded his resignation.

Joyner on corrections group; to help find inmate housing

Wayne County Commissioner R. William Joyner, who represents the Belleville-Romulus area, has been appointed to the corrections committee of the County Board of Commissioners.

The appointment was announced by Board Chairman Richard E. Manning, who chose all five members of the committee that reports to the Public Safety & Judiciary Committee. Joyner is also vice-chairman of Public Safety & Judiciary.

The committee was established by the board in June, 1978, to develop programs for housing county inmates after the City of Detroit announced plans to close the Detroit House of Correction (DeHoCo) at the end of the year.

Since that time, the facility has operated under a circuit court order to continue accepting prisoners while city, county and state authorities negotiate some agreement, Joyner pointed out.

Although the facility is owned by Detroit, the county generally houses between 500 and 600 prisoners there and reimburses the city for their upkeep, he noted.

"We're exploring all kinds of options, including half-way house concepts, work-release programs, and complete take-over by the state.

The state already has full responsibility for females sentenced there," said Joyner.

Besides DeHoCo, the corrections committee oversees construction of the county's new $31.7 million detention facility in downtown Detroit. It also recommends on juvenile justice system needs and considers staffing, funding and preliminary approval of programs in the Sheriff's dept.

Joyner will serve on the committee with Commissioners Samuel A. Turner and John J. Korney, both from Detroit; Mary E. Dumas, Livonia; and Kay L. Beard, Inkster. Turner is the committee chairman.

Helping Hand seeks help

The Helping Hand, Inc. in Romulus is requesting the assistance of local businesses to actively support the efforts of this multi-service agency.

The Helping Hand was incorporated in 1969 and is a tax exempt, charitable, non-profit organization.

"Thanks to the funding we received from ADF through Campaign for Human Development, the Department of Labor, and assistance from community churches, civic organizations, schools, and individuals, the staff and volunteers have been able to implement and continue supportive services to area residents," said Florence Klein, director.

In urging local businesses to help her agency, she said that contributors upon request would be sent a tax receipt.

The Helping Hand operates a thrift shop which dispenses clothing to the general public at a minimal cost. However, clothing is given free to needy families who are referred by qualified personnel such as a social worker, teacher, minister, priest, etc., Mrs. Klein explained.

The agency also utilizes Project F.O.O.D. in emergency situations to provide food, clothing, bedding and baby furniture, as well as emergency referrals and contacts, to other agencies for supportive aid with individual problems and education aid, she added.

Project H.E.L.P., also operated by the Helping Hand, gives free new baby clothing to low-income families bringing babies home from the hospital under a layette program.

Klein said this baby assistance, as well as a crisis and referral center, operates out of office space provided by the city of Romulus in the rear of the recreation department on Bibbins Street.

For additional information on the Helping Hand, she asked interested persons to call her at 941-5323 or 941-5329.

Silverdome rodeo slated

The contestant list for the "World's Biggest 1-Day Rodeo" in the Pontiac Silverdome April 1 will read like the who's who in the sport of rodeo with all of the current world champions competing, barring serious injury at another rodeo immediately preceding this one.

A total of 90 competitors will be featured with the top 15 in the world championship standings competing in each of the six major contests — bareback bronc riding, steer wrestling, saddle bronc riding, cowgirls barrel racing, calf roping and bull riding.

Crime speaker

Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas last Tuesday explained the sheriff's role in out-county suburbia before a luncheon meeting of the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce at the Ramada Inn. Following the luncheon, Lucas answered questions from chamber members.

Drive through home

This little house on Palmer Road in Westland looks more like a garage than a house these days. An automobile driven by an Inkster woman veered off the road and drove right through the home Friday, leaving gaping holes front and back. The car finally stopped after it crashed through the structure, and was towed away by police, who say the driver left the scene but contacted police Monday. The driver was uninjured, and the house was vacant at the time. — ANP photo by Tom Greenwood.

Wayward car drives through vacant home

ANP Staff Writer

A stunt driver probably couldn't have maneuvered a more spectacular drive, according to some who hear the story.

But Juanita Mooneyhan of Inkster is not a stunt driver. She's just a woman who apparently drove her car through a Westland house March 9.

According to Westland police accounts, Mrs. Mooneyhan was driving east on Palmer between Wildwood and Venoy at about 3 p.m.

Suddenly, her car left the highway, swerved right, across a sidewalk, into a field, bounced off a tree, hit a ditch that sent it five feet into the air, landed, then crashed through one side of a small house and out the other side before stopping.

It was probably quite a sight to behold. And the Westland police and owners of the house are hoping that someone did indeed see it.

They would like to talk to witnesses who might have watched the scene.

The woman who owns the drive-through house, Shirley Robbins of Wayne, believes there was a driver behind Mrs. Mooneyhan on the road. She believes it was this man who witnessed the accident, then drove to a phone and called police.

But by the time the police arrived, Mrs. Mooneyhan was gone, according to Officer Peter Brokas of the Westland Police Department. The car was still there, setting where it stopped after plowing through the house.

As the car was being towed by police, relatives of the driver did appear, Brokas said. They told him that Mrs. Mooneyhan would contact him Monday.

When she talked to police March 12n Mrs. Mooneyhan, 55, said she had swerved off Palmer Road to avoid an oncoming car, Brokas said.

By the time she had made her spectacular detour and her car had stopped, she was shaken, but unhurt. She told police she went to a nearby home and asked to use the phone. The police report indicates that after her call, she was picked up by someone in another car and left the area.

No other witnesses to the actual accident have appeared.

Police are still investigating the incident to determine if charges will be brought against the driver. The likely charge, if one is made, would be leaving the scene of an accident.

In the meantime, house owner Mrs. Robbins was thankful that no one was in the house when the incident occurred. She said the home was built by her grandparents more than 50 years ago, and she was born there.

The family owned several houses along Palmer when they settled in the area, and now own the small house that was destroyed, and the larger one next door. Both have been vacant, although Mrs. Robbins said she had been working in the smaller house daily to restore and fix it up.

Bill would increase supply of corneas for transplants

A bill has been passed in the State House of Representatives which could significantly increase the supply of corneas made available for "eye" transplants.

That's the word from State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District), who said the bill will permit, under certain circumstances, the removal of the corneas of deceased persons by or under the authority of the county medical examiner during the course of an autopsy, if there is no objection by the next-of-kin.

Many persons who are blind or have seriously impaired vision can have their sight restored by a corneal transplant operation, which involves replacing the "clear window" at the very front of the eye, Mahalak explained. This small part of the eye is removed from donors within six hours of their death and can be transplanted during the next few days.

"Unfortunately, there is a shortage of corneal tissue in the Michigan Eye Bank, particularly of young, high quality tissue," he said. "Corneas from young persons is preferred simply because it lasts longer. Generally, the older the tissue the sooner it wears out."

In Michigan, there is a waiting list of 30 or 40 people for cornea transplants at any one time. The average wait is about three months. In some emergency cases, in order to preserve a person's eyesight, corneal tissue must be obtained from other states.

Several other states have reacted to similar shortages by enacting laws which allow medical examiners to remove corneas or authorize their removal from bodies undergoing routine autopsies; often this tissue is from young persons who have died violently.

The bill, in addition to the requirement that there be no objection to cornea removal by the next-of-kin, also would require that an autopsy had already been ordered by the medical examiner, would not interfere with any further investigation or autopsy, and would not alter the post-mortem facial appearance of the deceased.

The bill would further provide that anyone authorized by the county medical examiner to remove the corneas of deceased persons would not be liable for civil lawsuit, if it was later alleged that authorization for the removal was required of the next-of-kin.

The legislation is presently under Senate consideration.

"It would be of considerable value to those persons in Michigan who would benefit from cornea transplant operations, but who now have to wait until the necessary tissue is available," Mahalak said. "The bill does not require a medical examiner to do anything. Rather, it simply permits a medical examiner to remove or authorize removal of the cornea during a routine autopsy."

According to an eye bank official from Maryland, where a similar law was passed in 1975, there have been no complaints about the procedure there despite the average of 1,000 cornea removals a year.

The bill, as approved by the House by a unanimous vote, would expire at the end of 1982, which would give the legislature a chance to review its effectiveness and, if it is successful to renew it.

March 24 opening set for Lemontree Golf Course

By CHRIS ERDODY

Lemontree Golf Course is already gearing for the 1979 season. If the weather cooperates, they hope to open for business March 24th. Lemontree is Course is a great place for golfers to enjoy a leisurely round of golf while relaxing on a sunny afternoon in pleasant surroundings. It is located off I-94 just west of Belleville Road. A straight shot off the first tee takes the golfer along the ap-plegrove-lined fairway, and the natural beauty continues from that point on. There's a pretty little par 3 hole over a winding brook and a number of fairways beside natural ponds which wild fowl and beaver call home.

On another hole the golfer aims just right of a beautiful, blooming Mulberry tree and continues around to a great finishing hole with a beautifully contoured, elevated green.

If clothing, equipment or lessons are what you require; then golf professional, Gordie Sullens is the guy to see. Gordie is the head pro at Lemontree and is one of the youngest in the state. Just back from a three month stay in Florida, Gordie is anxiously awaiting opening day.

Lemontree offers one of the few natural grass driving ranges in the area. Just the thing for your game's spring tune-up.

Gordie claims you won't find a finer 9-hole course around — or a more accomodating staff to help you and your game.

Since opening day is dependent on the weather, please call the Lemontree Pro Shop at 699-2800 for information and tee times.

Gordie Sullens, Lemontree's Golf Pro, has kept his golf game in top shape by spending the last three months practicing in Florida.

Lemontree featured at Builders show

By CHRIS ERDODY

Lemontree Apartments will have a display at the annual Builders Home, Furniture and Flower Show at Cobo Hall. The show will open Saturday, March 17th and run through Sunday, March 25th.

Lemontree's display board tells the story. With full color photos of Belleville Lake, the clubhouse and golf course, the display is a real eye catcher. It has to be. They are competing with the Recreation Department's garden which features a large wall of falling water about 12 feet high and 20 feet long.

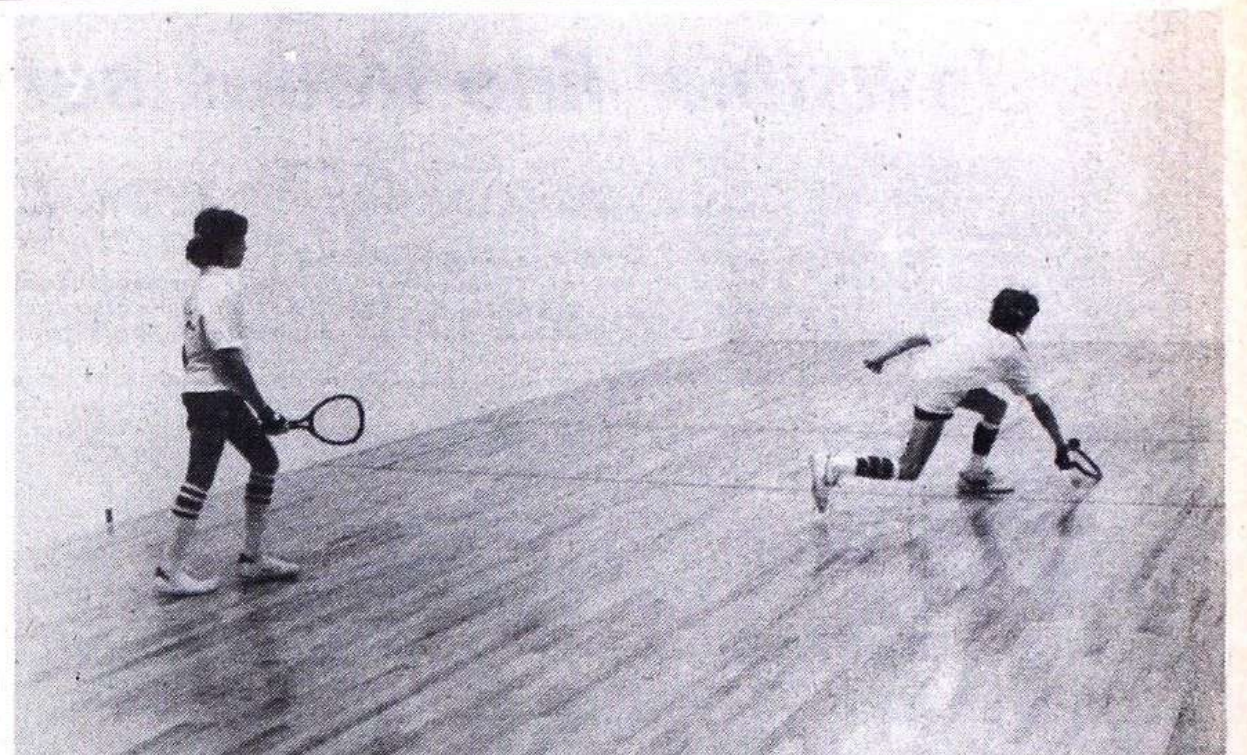

Lemontree's knowledgeable rental staff will be on hand throughout the show to answer all questions on the lifestyle offered at Lemontree. Staff will pass out brochures and give away their ever famous lemon drop candies.

Stop by their booth and find out why Lemontree is known as "Apartment Living With a Twist".

Sports Illustrated Court Clubs have much to offer both residents and visitors to the Lemontree. With many events scheduled for the benefit of local players, the one which seems to attract the most attention is the 'Ladder Tournament.' Providing participants with an opportunity to be involved in a 'no lose' competitive situation, the Ladder Tournaments run for two months and even the losers are winners, receiving prizes for their efforts.

Ladder Tournaments highlight Sports Illustrated Court Club

By KATHY CULLEN

On April 15, 1979, Sports Illustrated Court Clubs will be starting their second annual Amateur Ladder Tournament. Filled with an array of valuable prizes, the tournament offers its participants the chance to continue competing for a prize after any number of losses.

What exactly is a ladder tournament?

Participants are listed on a large board located in the lobby of the club. All members are allowed to join and are eligible to win a prize as long as they complete the 12 game requirement. The tournament runs for 3 months. Each individual is able to schedule their game according to their own convenience.

Matches are recorded and the winner replaces his opponent's position on the board — thus "climbing" the ladder.

At the end of the club tournament, finalists compete in a playoff round and a champion is determined in each division.

All Sports Illustrated Court Clubs in operation hold a club ladder tournament. At the end of the tournaments, winners move on to championship tournaments. This provides the amateur player with tournament experience and the possibility of winning prizes valued at thousands of dollars.

The finals will be held at the Lemontree Club and are open to the public.

If you're planning your summer in advance, why not make room for this unique and popular athletic event.

'Invisible' line keeps services from needy seniors

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

Why are 26 Canton Township senior citizens benefiting from homechore services when Plymouth seniors boast of 328?

Why is more than half of the $21,000 federal grant to fund the free homechore assistance program being used for salaries of administrators for the Canton-Plymouth-Northville (CNP) YMCA, the local administering agent for the Title-3 grant?

And why is the service only provided to Canton Township seniors living north of Ford Road?

When Canton Supervisor Noel Culbert comments on the matter he is quick to lay blame on Janet Luce, the YMCA's coordinator of the program.

Mrs. Luce, who drew the Ford Road boundary line, puts the blame on the federal government's stingy funding.

And federal government officials speculate that the faltering program is the result of loosely-written federal guidelines.

The homechore service consists of housecleaning assistance for eligible seniors over the age of 60. Mrs. Luce, when revealing her records to Canton officials, could not produce statistics on how often services were rendered, and the nature of the services.

In addition, population figures used by Mrs. Luce are inaccurate, according to the U.S. Social Security Department. A spokesman said Mrs. Luce "dreamed up 3,000 seniors."

Mrs. Luce claims Social Security figures for 1978 illustrate there are 10,692 qualifying seniors living in her service area. Social Security officials, however, said their most recent 1977 figures reveal 7,163 persons.

While Mrs. Luce claims Plymouth has 4,211 seniors Plymouth Township 3,182, Northville 2,093, Northville Township 347, and Canton Township with 859 seniors, those figures are disputed by each community.

Individual community records show Plymouth with 1,438 seniors, Plymouth Township 1,650, Northville 800, Northville Township with 400, and Canton Township with 2,500 seniors.

More than 71-percent of the homechore service is concentrated in Plymouth. With Canton receiving less than 6-percent of the services, Culbert believes Mrs. Luce should correct her population statistics.

"If she'd unfudge the population figures that she's obviously fudged-up, she might see that Canton is getting the shaft," said Culbert.

Culbert said Mrs. Luce should be responsible to an agency of higher authority. She is. But the Area Agency on Aging, in monitoring Mrs. Luce, is merely required to accept quarterly reports.

Officials from the AAA refused comment.

Jackie Borden, the public information officer from the state Office of Aging Department, said normally there is no reason for monitoring agencies to question local community activity.

"If she was giving figures to AAA that were incorrect, they wouldn't know. And neither would we unless someone like you notifies us," said Mrs. Borden.

Mrs. Borden said the matter would be investigated by her department.

More than 50-percent of Canton's seniors live south of Ford Road, according to Canton officials. Mrs. Luce could not provide the Eagle with information on how many seniors were provided with homechore service south of Ford Road, though she said the Ford Road boundary line was not "strictly" adhered to.

"Details, details. You know too many questions and details can defeat the purpose of the program," Mrs. Luce said. "That is why we withdrew our request for funds from Canton. They (Canton officials) asked us for more information on our program operations than the federal government does."

Mrs. Luce asked Canton officials for a $720 donation, but withdrew her request when officials asked for a monthly service report in exchange for the donation.

Canton officials also ordered the boundary line erased, and Mrs. Luce said "their wish shall be granted."

Mrs. Luce said she could not operate the program unless more than half the grant was used for administrators' salaries.

The reason Mrs. Luce gave for seeking the Canton donation is her administrative costs. The administrators' salaries in her program exceed federal allowances, recently amended in October.

SOME TRAVEL TIPS

One of the keys to packing is the ancient maxim: "Divide and conquer." Follow it and the entire operation will be neat and tidy. Plastic bags in a variety of sizes can hold stockings, undergarments, gloves and scarves and keep them from getting separated.

When you're traveling with the spouse and kids, there's no need to stick together in museums or shopping markets. Your interests may not be the same. Separate and compare notes afterward.

Since you will probably send more postcards than letters, buy the cards early in your trip, address all of them and carry them with you. Then during snatches of waiting time — on a sightseeing bus before the start, at railway stations and airports — you can write the messages.

If you can wait, don't take city sightseeing tours on a Sunday. You will only see soundless streets and empty buildings. Go out into the countryside. Green fields and rolling hills are a refreshing break from the traveler's routine.

"Just remember, our service doesn't cost a thing."

Sponsored by the Garden City Jaycees, the Starlite Lounge, Radio station WCXI and Randy Jack and the West Grand Boulevard Band, the jamboree will help raise money for Reye's Syndrome research.

Eight bands have volunteered their time and talents for the jamboree and include the Dave Atkins Revue, Jimmy Patrick and Freight Train Unlimited, Chuck Lee and the Selectmen, the Tommy Jackson Show, and Larry Lee and the Hanging Tree.

There will be a $2 charge at the door, which will be donated to the Reye's Syndrome Research Fund. Continuous entertainment will be provided from 2 p.m. to 2 a.m. at the lounge.

Reye's Syndrome usually follows viral infection, such as the flu or Chicken Pox, and usually strikes youths under 18 years of age. It causes the brain to swell, prolonged heavy vomiting, delirium, retardation or death.

For further information on the benefit contact the lounge at 676-7373 or Jaycee Steve Broyles at 421-3526.

GOOD PSYCHOLOGY

PRaise THAT DESCRIBES EFFORTS IS MORE HELPFUL THAN PRAISE THAT DESCRIBES CHARACTER. PSYCHOLOGISTS POINT OUT, WHEN YOU TELL YOUR TEENAGE SON, FOR EXAMPLE, THAT HE'S ALWAYS SO GOOD AND GENEROUS, YOU PUT HIM UNDER AN OBLIGATION TO LIVE UP TO THAT ALL THE TIME. RELAXING WITH HIM OVER A REFRESHING CUP OF HOT TEA AND A SNACK AFTER CLASS IS A GOOD TIME TO PRAISE HIS LATEST ACCOMPLISHMENT.

Preventing poisoning

Poison proof your home . . . the Michigan Pharmacists Association (MPA) is urging adults to be aware of potential poisons which can be found in their homes, especially this week which nationwide is being observed at National Poison Prevention Week.

"Not all substances which can cause illness or death, when ingested in sufficient quantities, are marked with the word 'poison,'" said William Adrian, MPA president.

He emphasized that household cleansers, solvents, pesticides and non-prescription drugs are potentially poisonous substances. They should be kept out of the reach of small children — preferably in a locked medicine chest. Parents can "poison proof" their homes in the following ways:

— Store internal medicines separately from other household products.

— Avoid taking medicines in front of children. They imitate grown-ups.

MUSICAL NOTES
by Doug Brown

There are many types of operas these days. No longer are all operas in the U.S. performed in New York in Italian or Spanish, Opera has become a nationwide phenomenon and is being composed and performed all over this country. One of the most revolutionary forms is the 'rock opera', first introduced to the country from Great Britain in form of Tommy by the "Who". That is pure rock opera. Another well known rock opera is Jesus Christ Superstar, which is more of a traditional Broadway type musical than Tommy, but nonetheless a bona fide rock opera. Hair is another example. They are pleasing crossings of two types of music previously totally foreign to each other, rock and opera.

To avoiding gas rationing

Curbing unnecessary near-home travel may be key

Cutting unnecessary near-home car travel is the key to eliminating the need for gasoline rationing and weekend service station closings proposed in a standby federal plan, according to Automobile Club of Michigan. "Any rationing plan would cripple state tourism, Michigan's No. 2 industry, and would not achieve any appreciable fuel savings since vacation travel accounts for only 2.5

percent of all auto trips," said Auto Club touring manager Joseph Ratke. "Earning a living, social visits and family business trips account for 96 percent of all auto trips. Seventy-five percent of those trips are under 10 miles each.

"An added incentive to motorists now driving 10,000 miles yearly would be the $135 savings in fuel, tire and maintenance costs realized by reducing mileage 20 percent."

Auto Club outlined seven steps motorists can take to dramatically cut near-home gasoline consumption:

— Form car pools. Commuting is the largest single category of auto use. Two persons car pooling to work daily can save 25 percent of the fuel used weekly by each.

— Combine near-home trips. Fifty-four percent of all trips by car are under five miles. Make one trip for all errands in the same area. Travel during non-rush hours. Share shopping trips with neighbors.

— Drive conservatively. A motorist accelerating smoothly and driving at a steady pace with minimal braking over a 10-mile urban course can increase gasoline mileage 60 percent, while finishing only 25 seconds behind a car driven with jackrabbit techniques.

— Drive at moderate speeds. Most cars get about 21 percent more miles per gallon at 55 than at 70 miles per hour.

— Keep a daily mileage log. Denote the length and number of all trips to find which can be eliminated or combined.

— Maintain cars. Tests show that routine maintenance improves mileage 10 percent. Just keeping tires properly inflated can add one mile per gallon.

— Do not idle a car's motor more than a minute. It takes less gas to restart than to idle the engine more than a minute.

Jazz concert planned

A showcase of three legendary jazz performers will be offered by Wayne County Community College Friday and April 6.

The WC3 Alumni Association will sponsor two special concerts on those dates, featuring Ella Fitzgerald Friday and Sarah Vaughn with Count Basie and his Orchestra for the April 6 concert.

Both events are scheduled in a continuing series of special events hosted by the alumni association. They will take place at Detroit's historic Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts.

"We feel certain that our 'Alumni Association Goes Jazz' concerts will be well supported by our alumni membership and current student body, as well as the general public," said Mrs. Marva Prather, president of the WC3 Alumni Association. "The early response to reservations so far indicates a fine turnout, but there still is room, and good seats are available."

The price of both WC3 Alumni Association Jazz concerts is $25 per person, or $50 per couple. Prices as indicated are inclusive of both concert events.

Reservations may be made by sending checks or money orders to the WC3 Alumni Association, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Room 209, Detroit 48201.

For further information concerning the Ella Fitzgerald-Sarah Vaughn-Count Basie concerts, call 832-1192.

Battles mobile home industry

Canton resident claims eviction is 'retaliatory'

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

Less than a month ago, June Lewis felt she was all alone in her more than two-year-old fight against the mobile home industry.

Today, sitting in her mobile home at Holiday Estate Mobile Home Park, the Canton Township resident scowls at warped walls, ceilings and floors, and wonders how she will survive another day in a home that still cannot be believed.

Crowded by politicians and "dogooders" (as Mrs. Lewis refers to the persons who see themselves as almost politicians) she says she still feels all alone in her cause.

Park owner Sheldon Futernick served Mrs. Lewis with 30-day eviction notice in late February, and the park manager refuses to accept rent payments from Mrs. Lewis.

Mrs. Lewis has retained an attorney to fight the eviction notice on the grounds that the eviction is a "retaliatory action" on the park owner's part.

"After all my complaining and getting my story in the paper, I should have known something like this would happen," said Mrs. Lewis.

The state attorney general's office has jurisdiction over the Lewis case, because the state Mobile Home Commission had not been created at the time her case number was filed.

Though the case had been closed, the attorney general's consumer affairs division apparently saw a need to reopen the Lewis file when it sent a letter on Feb. 26 to Futernick demanding the eviction be dropped, or a reason showing "just cause" by Futernick be sent to the attorney general's office within five days.

"We received a letter from Mr. Futernick and he says it was not a retaliatory action, and that he has a good reason for her eviction," said Fern Wright, complaint examiner.

Mrs. Wright would not reveal to The Eagle the reason given by Futernick for the eviction, but said a copy of the letter would be sent to Mrs. Lewis.

Futernick is the president of the company, Village of Homes, that sold Mrs. Lewis her mobile home. Both the manufacturer and the mobile home dealer are responsible for repairs under state law.

But Mrs. Lewis said Futernick has been unresponsive to her repair requests, and would thus have reason to see her leave the mobile home park.

"It's so obvious that it's a retaliatory action," insists Mrs. Lewis.

Obvious or not, the state attorney general's office, staffed with two attorneys to represent all of the state's consumers, has "priorities." "I doubt very much that we'll pursue her case. The case will most likely be closed again," said Mrs. Wright who first opened the case nearly two and a half years ago when Mrs. Lewis lodged repair complaints. That (the repair complaints) also will most likely be dropped, said Mrs. Wright.

Mrs. Lewis said that after the Eagle printed articles about her circumstance in recent weeks it was the first time she had heard from the attorney general's office in more than a year and a half. It was also the first time persons from the state Department of Labor had made contact with her in more than a year.

"But to tell you the honest truth, I don't think any of it is going to do any good. People just don't care. They pass the buck to everyone else and in the meantime I'm facing an eviction notice, and its no joke. It's making me a nervous wreck," said Mrs. Lewis.

Robert Hilprecht, director of the Bureau of Construction Codes a division of the Dept. of Labor, said that although he did recently contact Mrs. Lewis regarding her repair complaints, he is stymied to take further action until the Canton building department takes action.

"Originally her complaint went to the state's Licensing and Regulation Department. Then it came here. I'm waiting, now, for all the facts surrounding the case to come to me," said Hilprecht. He expects the Canton building department to forward him those needed facts.

With all the facts presented, Hilprecht said it would take about a month for him to arrange for an administrative hearing to be scheduled. At the hearing it should be decided what will happen to remedy the home's needed repairs.

But if Hilprecht is waiting for Canton's building department to take action, the wait could be quite long.

"We're not taking action. We have no authority to do so," argues Kevin McVeigh, Canton building inspector. specter.

"I think the state is dragging its feet on this one, and a lot of other cases. They know we can't do anything," McVeigh said. "Any fool can see there's something dangerously wrong in her home."

McVeigh said it appears the floor is warped which could be the result of water damage, and the home is quite obviously not level.

"I really feel sorry for that lady. I don't know what in the devil she's going to do..." said McVeigh.

William Babb, consumer affairs director for Skyline Corporation, the mobile home manufacturer of Mrs. Lewis's home, visited her home last week.

He said that within a week to 10 days he would send Mrs. Lewis a report on what the company intends to do to rectify her apparent problems.

He refused to send a copy to the building department, the Canton Eagle or other interested parties.

Mrs. Lewis, however, is unimpressed with Babb's apparent revived interest in her situation.

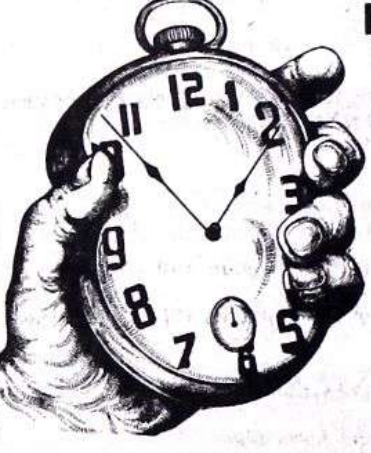

Skyline spent four days working on her home last year, but she claims nothing was accomplished. Mrs. Lewis hired independent contractors to inspect her home before and after the four-day repair spree. Before and after, two contractors stated in writing that the home was beyond repair, and should be replaced.

"Until someone takes this thing away, and brings me a new home I won't be happy. But I'm not holding my breath for anything because all these people think they're above the law. Maybe they just are..." speculated Mrs. Lewis.

Culbert wants HOW

Canton Township Supervisor Noel Culbert believes something should be done to aid the mobile homeowners of Canton, and throughout the state, in resolving repair complaints.

"I think that there should be legislation similar to the Homeowners Warranty (HOW) insurance for homeowners that would also help mobile home owners. We'd call it M-HOW," said Culbert.

But state legislation is not within Culbert's jurisdiction as township supervisor.

So, Culbert is sending his suggestion, and copies of articles about mobile home owners problems from The Canton Eagle, to Canton Township's state Senator William Faust's office. From there Culbert hopes preliminary work will begin to ensure mobile homeowners of guaranteed satisfaction or repair work needed on their homes.

"I must admit the HOW program was one very good thing my predecessor (former supervisor Harold Stein) did for Canton. It really has helped with getting builders to do repair work. It's lessened the complaint load," said Culbert who hopes the same will happen for mobile homeowners.

According to state law, Canton's building department has only limited jurisdiction over inspecting mobile homes. Only items such as fire extinguishers, plumbing and smoke detectors may be officially inspected.

"What ever else they find wrong with the home, they can't do anything to enforce it," Culbert said. "It (the home) could be falling apart and there's nothing they could do."

He hopes Canton can also gain more jurisdiction over inspecting mobile homes through amended state legislation. But he isn't sure how that issue can be resolved, yet.

"All I can tell people is, we're beginning to recognize there is a problem, and we're working on it as quickly as we can," said Culbert.

HOW insurance is a national insurance policy, adopted at the municipality's discretion. Canton is one of the first communities in southeastern Michigan to adopt the insurance policy that gives the homeowner a 10-year written warranty guarantee on repair work.

TOURING OUR FUNERAL HOME CAN BE EDUCATIONAL

Would your religious, fraternal or civic group like to make a tour of our funeral home facilities? We believe your members would benefit through the discussions with us and each other. Many people have no knowledge of funeral costs or procedures prior to the time of need, so an education tour can be quite helpful to them.
Do you, for instance, know about funeral costs and procedures? Are you aware of the more-than-75 specific details to which we automatically attend? Have you wondered about the formal education and training which a licensed funeral director must have? Are you aware of the many informative books available now on "death-and-dying"?
A tour might satisfy your curiosity about these questions, and others. You'll see how we meet the needs of individual families with the professional expertise our community has come to expect.
If you or your group would be interested in a tour, please call for details.

Brenner, Checker to appear at State-Wayne

Those who have followed the career of comic David Brenner on television will have the chance to enjoy his wit when he appears Friday and Saturday on stage at the State-Wayne Theater.

Two performances have been slated for Saturday — at 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Friday, the performance will start at 8 p.m.

Sharing the stage with Brenner will be songstress Ursula Walker and backing the shows will be the Buddy Budson Quartet, according to entrepreneur Bob Stottlemeyer, who is responsible for bringing the notable entertainment offerings to Western Wayne County audiences.

Brenner fans can still obtain some tickets at the State-Wayne box office, as well as at Rocky's Records at the Livonia Mall and in Plymouth. Prices for tickets are $8, $9 and $10. Tickets also available at Paul Webb Music in Ypsilanti and the Associated Newspapers' offices at 35540 Michigan Avenue, Wayne, and 116 Fourth St., Belleville.

Popular as an entertainer, Brenner has summed up his career goals as "my goal in my show business life is to make as many people laugh as heartily as they can for as long as I am able."

Following the Brenner performances with another "big name", the management of the State-Wayne will bring in popular singer - rock and roller Chubby Checker, whose name is synonymous with the "Twist" and a series of more than 30 hit records.

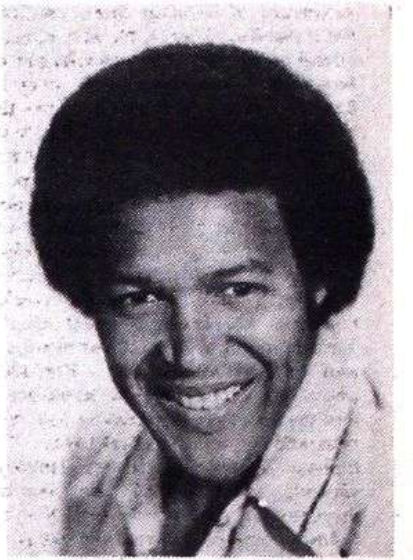

Recently, Dick Clark called Chubby Checker one of three major influences in the music industry in the last 25 years, along with Elvis and the Beatles.

More mature in style, but still with the old magic that is a sure crowd-pleaser, Chubby Checker will be on stage at the State-Wayne on Sunday at 8 p.m.

Tickets are still available at the theater box office and at the aforementioned business places.

A change of pace

Bills, taxes, food, clothes, shelter. When you're through paying out money, there may well be nothing left to save for yourself. After writing all those monthly checks, you deserve a break — a change of pace.

You can give yourself that break, and pay yourself before you pay anyone else, by joining the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank, or to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. In either case, you can save a specified amount of money automatically, before you get a chance to spend it.

The money saved will grow as you hold it, at a rate averaging 6 percent, if the Bonds are held to a five-year maturity (4½ percent the first year). There is no state or local income tax to pay on the interest, and federal tax may be deferred until the Bonds are cashed or reach final maturity. Bond principal and interest are guaranteed by the government, and lost, stolen, mutilated, or destroyed Bonds can be replaced free of charge.

E Bonds can be held for at least 15 years, and then converted to current-income Series H Bonds (with a continued tax deferral on E Bond interest), which can be useful for retirement planning and income. The H Bonds will provide a regular source of income for at least 20 years.

With all these advantages, it's easy to see why millions of Americans purchase E Bonds regularly. You can do the same.

Basketball benefit

A burn victim is one whose life depends on quick and professional care. And the National Institute for Burn Medicine has been the mainstay of helping those victims. On Saturday, March 24, at 8 p.m., a group of Wayne Jaycees will put on basketball uniforms and play a benefit basketball game against the WABX DJ's to help raise funds to do their part in the fight to help burn victims. The game will be played at Wayne Memorial High School, Glenwood and Fourth, and fans will not only be helping a worthy cause but also be getting a look at Charlie Primas, a ex-member of the world-renown Harlem Globetrotters. Tickets are $1.50 and $2 for students and adults respectively. Pictured above are some of the promoters and members of the Wayne Jaycees who will see action in that game. The line-up includes Michael Hurley, seated, president of the Wayne Jaycees, R. William Joyner, Wayne County Commissioner, (second row, from left), Michael Dombrowski, Jerry Marek and Donald Justice.

Rinesmith named home economist for MSU extension

Eleanor C. Rhinesmith has been appointed cooperative extension home economist for Wayne County, effective March 1, pending approval by the Michigan State University Board of Trustees. Rhinesmith received her bachelor of science degree in institutional management from the University of Nebraska. She also has a master of arts degree in family living education from Wayne State University. The new extension home economist served as executive director for YWCAs at West Virginia University, Washington University and Oakland County. She also previously worked as a teacher for Clawson and St. Clair High Schools. Her new job will involve the coordination of Wayne County's Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program for low-income families. She also will supervise and train aides and volunteers for the program, which is administered by the Family Living Education branch of the Cooperative Extension Service. Rhinesmith and her husband, James, have four children.

Volley ball was invented and first played in Holyoke, Mass. in 1895.

ES telethon airs Saturday on TV-20

The Tri-County Easter Seal societies will team up with WXON-TV, Channel 20, to present the annual Easter Seal Telethon, planned for this weekend.

The 20-hour show, hosted by Jack Klugman of "Quincy" fame, will begin at 11 p.m. March 24, with a host of stars entertaining direct from Hollywood.

Marc Avery of WJR will emcee local segments of the television spectacular for 20 minutes every hour.

The Easter Seal telethon, which helps raise funds to bring needed rehabilitation services to people with handicaps, has been sponsored by the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults since 1972, and has raised more than $25 million to help fund programs for handicapped people of ages.

The National Easter Seal Society is celebrating its 60th anniversary this year. Since 1919, it has been widely recognized as the organization that has provided more services to more handicapped people than any other voluntary health agency in the world.

The Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties' Easter Seal societies can be reached by calling 338-9626.

CITY OF ROMULUS NOTICE

LEGAL NOTICE TO FAMILIES WHO LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS OPERATED BY THE ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION OR LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS IN ANY OTHER CITY BETWEEN MARCH 16, 1971, - SEPTEMBER 26, 1975:

If you rented a house or apartment from the ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;
2. a dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971, to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 6, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

Publish every week until April 4.

Van Buren five are home again

The decision by Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman, to release from jail, five Van Buren officials who had been cited for contempt of court, is one of the few recent decisions of his which we can agree with.

Following eight days in the Wayne County jail, the officials were freed pending an appeal of Kaufman's order that would have forced them to allowing a mobil home project to tap into the overloaded Ypsilanti sewer system.

Since the very beginning of this case in 1970, when Kaufman ordered the rezoning of the property that would be the cite of the mobile home park, until last week, the saga of 'technical law versus common sense', has been handled badly. Handled badly by both the Van Buren officials and the circuit court.

Initially, Van Buren relied to heavily on the township attorney's judgment in the handling of the case before Circuit court. Had officials at that time, paid closer attention to the developing situation, perhaps much of what happened could have been avoided.

On the other hand, it could be argued that when dealing with circuit court, it is assumed that essential justice will prevail, even if technical mistakes are made.

But that did not happen.

Kaufman not only ordered the rezoning of the property in question, but later also ordered the board to meet and approve of the park's tap in to the Ypsilanti sewer system.

We think Kaufman made a series of serious mistakes in the handling of the mobil home park's litigation.

Others agree with that contention.

Senator William Faust, senate majority leader, has joined with Rep. Gary Owen of Van Buren, to seek a review of Kaufman's action and comments relative to the Van Buren case.

While circuit court watchers are quick to laud the judicial conduct of Kaufman, referring to him as one of the best judges on that bench, it is difficult for the rest of us to arrive at the same conclusion, based on the Van Buren order and subsequent jailing.

While it is unlikely that the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission will act on the complaints lodged against Kaufman (that group seldom reacts to any complaints), Kaufman's comments during the hearing of the case certainly do raise questions.

At one point the circuit court judge referred to the Van Buren officials as being "worse than common criminals." Later he called them "demagogues." Indeed strange comments from the man charged with impartially deciding of the merits of the case. And all of this resulting from a situation where the developers of the park had never been refused by the Van Buren Board of Trustees.

Perhaps Kaufman was simply exhausted following almost nine years of judicial hearings on the case. And perhaps Kaufman felt that he really knew who the wronged party to the dispute was, and simply tried to cut through the judicial wrangling, but in any event, we think he made several mistakes.

But at the bottom line, who can make the best decision for the majority of the residents of Van Buren?

We think those officials elected to the job, and living and working in the community, are the better judge of what is best for the community.

SEMTA really real

Well what do you know?

It seems that there really is a SEMTA, Virginia.

For the past several years, many of the elected officials representing the Belleville-Romulus area have tried to gain some form of bus transportation for the residents of those areas.

They tried but failed.

Well at long last, it appears that there will be a bus program in the future for the people who have waited so long.

And the thanks should go to the man who did the most to secure that commitment from SEMTA.

Edward Mahalak, state representative of the area, has threatened, cajoled, and pleaded with SEMTA for the past several years, to schedule the buses through his district.

His efforts, and those of his supporters as Mayor Oakley, Senator William Faust, Rep. Gary Owen and Rep. Thomas Brown, have at last secured the long-overdue service.

It is not too often that we are able to pat our lawmakers on the back for a good job, but it is due here.

Rep. Mahalak is to be Mahalak is to be congratulated for his successful efforts in gaining bus service for his constituents.

He took a bite of SEMTA and hung-on tenaciously until the service was approved and scheduled.

Mayor Oakley should also be commended for his part in the successful efforts which have resulted in the service scheduled to begin on April 6.

About balancing the Federal budget

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

Word that President Jimmy Carter has started a drive to defeat the calling of a national constitutional convention, comes as little surprise.

In his announcement, Carter said that he feared that the drive to amend the federal constitution, to require a balanced budget, was close to succeeding and he was therefore establishing an emergency task force to convince the states of the 'profound' consequences, of such action.

Profound consequences indeed!

Apparently Carter, believes that 26 states have approved the call for a convention simply as a knee-jerk reaction to an emotional issue. That Governor Jerry Brown of California, and the rest who support the call for a convention, are simple misguided folks who do not know what they ask.

Perhaps the president, who promised us a balanced budget by 1980, has lost touch with the economic reality that was the cornerstone of his election campaign in 1976.

In arguing against the constitutional convention, Carter has said that he fears that a convention would run out-of-control. That there would be no limits on the action that such a convention might take, and he is apparently fearful of the impact of special interest on the convention's proposals.

What Carter has not said is that he is also fearful of potential results, should the people of this country ever realize that they have the clout necessary to effect change.

In all fairness, there are probably many good reasons for opposition to the convention call, but Carter, so far, has not listed any of them.

At a time when Congress has seen fit to treat itself in a manner that would make a sultan envious and at a time when the federal bureaucracy is 'hell bent for leather' on spending the taxpayers money any damn way they see fit, I wonder how the president can manage a straight face when he insists that his commitment to balancing the budget is the best way, when each of his budgets, so far, have increased the federal deficit.

No, it is time for Carter and any few remaining elected officials who still want the federal deficit reduced, to concede that the problem is bigger than they are.

Let's take a look at reality.

There is no doubt that Carter really intended to deliver on his campaign promises to balance the budget, reduce the size of government, and to make federal bureaucrats more accountable.

But what happened?

Government has grown under Carter, the deficit has grown under Carter, and government is no more accountable under Carter.

Just last week, an announcement from Sen. William Proxmire's office stated that more federal officials are now using chauffeur-driven government cars, than prior to Carter's no-frills, cost cutting edicts of 1977. Proxmire's survey showed that the number of chauffeured bureaucrats has in fact increased from 148 to 175 over the past two years.

Those 27 new 'VIPs' have increased government spending by $1.53 million, but still Carter fears the effects of a citizen mandated balanced budget, that would force all 175 of those civil servants to walk.

While it would be grossly unfair to heap all of the blame for continued government excess on Carter, when in fact Congress is the real villain, it is obvious that Carter's plan is not, and most probably, cannot, work.

With Congress, the President, and every minor bureaucrat treating themselves royally, it will take a royal shake up to solve the problem.

And judging by the way most elected officials have reacted to the 'threat' of a balanced budget, maybe the call for a federal constitutional convention will provide that shake-up.

Perhaps, one additional item the convention could examine would be a limit on the salaries of our elected officials.

Health Beat

Tuttle's last words... "Goodbye."

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

There's an old adage which most of us have used at one time or another which says that all good things must come to an end.

The truth of that warning now becomes clear to me as I sit here to write what will be my last column as Director of Community Relations for the PCHA.

For the past six years it's been my privilege to work for the Authority. Now, I feel forced to move up a few rungs on the so-called career ladder and I'm taking my talents, however questionable that may be, to another hospital.

During my six years at PCHA, I was fortunate enough to write this column for better than three of those years.

Now I'm going to use my last column inches to do something which, while not particularly original, is something I feel must be done: I'm going to thank publicly some people who were great helps to me and to any successes I may have experienced.

Most of these people are people whose names don't ordinarily find their way into print. Unfortunately, that all too often seems to be the case in life. I'll call them my unsung heroes and heroines.

First there is a lady named Maureen Brown. She's a secretary in the PCHA Central Office, and for better than a year she served double duty assisting both myself and another Director. Thanks, Maureen, your assistance was deeply appreciated.

Another lady, this one is named Audrey Bruning, now serves in the same awkward position as did Mrs. Brown. Audrey helped me stagger through the labyrinth called newspaper advertising for new employees. It may sound simple, placing ads in 19 papers each week, but believe me, it can at times drive one to distraction. Thanks Mrs. Bruning.

Sandy Smith is a clerk-typist in the Personnel Department. It's really too bad, but that seemingly simple title just doesn't do credit to her. I was always able to dump some kind of ratty job on Sandy, and she'd have it finished before I could sit down to consider my next task. Sandy, you are a bona fide professional.

The PCHA Coordinator of Employee Services is a lady named Linda Kayden. Linda is our gal Friday. You can go to her for help with only employee-type problems, and she'll have the answer before you finish the question. Thanks Linda, I'll miss you.

Karl S. Klicka, MD, was my first boss when I joined the PCHA. Now retired, Dr. Klicka remains a friend and confidant. In my judgment, there's not enough room in this entire paper to thank Karl Klicka for what he's meant to me, and more importantly for what he's meant to the PCHA. Bless you Karl.

Legal counsel for the Authority is a man named Charles B. Cozadd. Charlie is the man, who above all others, created this outstanding hospital group some 34 years ago. He's a friend. Maybe, Charlie, we can get together again for another lunch in Brighton!

And there are countless others who made my voyage through the PCHA smoother than I had any right to expect. Thanks Barb and Rosemary at Heritage Hospital. Thanks Marge at the Reception Desk at Annapolis Hospital. Then there's Lori and Chris and Ellen and Kathy in the Annapolis emergency room. And Laura, Caroline, and Diana from Beyer Memorial Hospital. We can't forget Arthur at Outer Drive Hospital and Diane at Seaway.

Most of all, however, I want very much to thank all those people who took the time to write me or call me when they felt they wanted to comment on one of my columns — either to raise particular hell with something I'd written or to agree or to suggest new ideas.

It's the readers of newspapers who are the important people, and I for one am aware of that truism.

I love you all. Goodbye.

Potomac ethics

Richard L. Leshner, President
Chamber of Commerce
Of The United States

Using a speech to the University of Michigan as his forum, Senator Edmund Muskie, (D-Maine), recently gave vent to a burst of irritability and attacked what he called, "the mood of the anti-regulators." These are the people, according to the Senator, who are threatening our environment because they claim it is too costly to protect Americans from the hazards of pollution.

Well phooey! Muskie defends his charge with a flood of angry rhetoric... but only drops of reason. And anger often impedes reason. George Jean Nathan once described it as: "The seducer of thought. No man can think clearly when his fists are clenched." So it is with the Senator's arguments. Indeed, the more Muskie carps, the more he flounders.

As an aside, I might also point out that Senator Muskie is Chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, but has no sympathy for Americans who are concerned about inflation and are trying to somehow limit federal spending from the grass-roots. He rejects these popular initiatives and calls them "dangerous and poorly thought through." But, let us concentrate here on his regulatory utterances in Michigan.

Muskie says the actions of the anti-regulators are "often blind and negative." and, "the environment is under attack from people who only believe numbers and figures." As proof of this "assault on regulations," he cites the Regulatory Reform bill. He says "it would set aside public health standards," because it would require cost-benefit analyses to be made for all existing regulations.

The Senator is also displeased with the President's new Regulatory Council which will be charged with flagging proposed regulations which could be overly costly. He calls the Council "an obvious symbol of the new anti-regulation, anti-government attitude."

How can Muskie legitimately attack this Council before it has even made a decision? More importantly, is it not possible that the President is right, and that he is acting in the best interests of the nation? Senator Muskie is highly critical of people who supposedly believe only in numbers and figures. Well for heaven's sake, isn't it time somebody started caring about numbers and figures? All the Senator seems to care about is setting regulatory targets of perfection which are frightfully expensive to achieve.

The average family now spends $675 a year just for air and water pollution controls, and this figure could climb as high as $1,400 by 1985. How much is enough? Is it not possible that those who want to take a second look at some of these regulations are not enemies hell-bent on destroying our environment, but are, instead, sincere people trying to reach the fairest possible balance between regulatory costs and social benefits?

Senator Muskie insists that, aside from dollars and cents costs, pollution has costs that can only be measured in lost jobs, health, recreation and future opportunities. Agreed. But he fails to acknowledge that precisely the same is true of excessive regulations.

Last year, when the Campbell Works of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company closed its doors in economically distressed Youngstown, Ohio, 5,000 steelworkers lost their jobs. The leaders of these workers told a group of visiting Congressmen that the Environmental Protection Agency had acted like it was only in business to put their company out of business. The men described in detail the agency's punitive regulatory actions against their company, and one Congressman remarked about the severity of the men's criticism.

So there is a case where supposedly needed regulations, enforced with the best of intentions, had disastrous consequences on the lives of the intended beneficiaries. And that case is only one of many.

The Chamber has supplied the President with specific suggestions on how his Administration could ease some of EPA's most excessive air and water regulations. These modifications could save American consumers tens of billions of dollars over the next decade without sacrificing needed safeguards against pollution.

As our regular readers know, we often disagree with President Carter. But in this matter, we think his approach, rather than Muskie's sweeping attacks on imaginary enemies, will guarantee us the possibility of both strengthening our economy and protecting our environment.

Reflections

Dad under arrest

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

One morning the mailman gave me a long official looking letter, addressed to my husband. Naturally I knew that he wouldn't want to wait until he got home from the office to know what was in the letter, so I ripped it open.

It was a warrant for his arrest.

I rushed to the telephone and shouted at him, "Don't leave the office. You're going to be arrested."

That shook him up a bit and he shouted some words that wouldn't be fit to see in print in a family newspaper. After he'd calmed down he said reasonably enough, "What the hell am I going to be arrested for?"

So I read him the letter, and that really tore him up because it seems that the warrant for his arrest was because something had happened with the Mustang and no one drives the Mustang but one kid who thinks he owns it.

"You'd better find out what your kid has been up to," my love said, and I knew that even though his breathing had gone back to normal he was still upset. The "your" kid told me that.

When 'my' kid got home that evening I showed him the letter and asked him what he had been up to in the Mustang.

"I washed it," he said cutting a loaf of bread in two and slapping on two packages of lunch meat. "And I forgot to pay the ticket."

"He washed it," I told his dad later that evening. "And he forgot to pay the ticket."

"What do you mean you washed it," his dad asked, "and you forgot to pay the ticket?"

"Remember that day you told me to clean up my car? Well, I put it on the driveway and went in to get a sponge and a cop came along and put a ticket in it."

"Oh my God," his father breathed, banging his forehead against the wall. "This is the kind of thing that can get you in jail. Why couldn't you have done something simple, like shooting someone, or robbing a bank, or raping some old woman? But you have to make sure I go to jail. You have to forget to pay a ticket."

All night long he paced the floor, sweat breaking out on his forehead and dripping down his cheeks.

"What are my friends going to say when I go to jail," he cried. "What is Ford Motor Company going to do? My God, what am I going to do . . . rotting in some stinking jail? How come your kid doesn't have any brains?"

The next day he looked calm enough standing before the judge, except his ears were wriggling a little, and every time his Adams Apple moved his tie twitched.

After hearing the charges and determining that the driveway car was being washed on was the driveway belonging to the kid's father, he did the only thing a judge could do. He suspended the sentence.

But my husband is still trying to decide whether to take the car away from the kid and drive him everywhere himself; never let him wash his car on the driveway, no matter how dirty it gets; or rip up the driveway.

On the Brighter Side

"Rats feeding on garbage"

By JIM BRADLEY

"Why do so many people like to read 'yellow' journalism?" asked the stocky, dark-haired boy in the third row.

The scene was a classroom at Stevenson Junior High School in Westland and I was discussing writing with a group of eighth and ninth graders on career day.

I had thrown the discussion open for questions and most of the 25 students in the audience gazed intently at me while I pondered the boy's query.

"You mean sensational stories like those done in tabloids you can buy from racks at grocery stores?" I inquired, trying to define his question.

"Yeah, like the National Inquirer...and similar ones," he explained.

"I guess it's because of people's basic human nature — they love to hear gossip," I replied. "They'd rather hear some juicy gossip or bad news than some good story. For instance, most people would rather read about five persons being axed to death down the street than hear about a little 85-year-old lady's life being saved from the hands of a mugger."

"That's the way it's always been and that's the way it always will be," I continued. "People love to absorb gossip and the bizarre, melodramatic, exciting and startling. They're just like rats feeding on garbage!"

"You sure tell it straight," quipped a slender, blond-haired boy in the front row.

It's been a few days now since I spoke to the four groups at Stevenson Junior High School last Thursday morning and I've had a chance to do some more thinking about the writing profession.

Everytime I speak to individuals or groups about my profession — news reporting and column writing — it gives me pause for reflection. This is a serious business, dealing with the lives and reputations of other people — and many prominent people at that.

Talking about the integrity of the newspaper profession makes me think of a writer's obligation to tell it "as it is" and not, necessarily, as he sees it or wishes it to be. In dealing with the lives, reputations and jobs of others, every honest reporter must write without fear or favor.

Of course, a column writer has the liberty and freedom to opinionize and express his feelings to the utmost. But, at the same time, he is accountable for every word he writes and must bear the responsibility of his position on any given subject or person.

It seems that whenever I discuss or write about journalism I renew my personal vow to seek truth at all costs. And many times the whole truth is hard to come by. Even when a person has found the "whole truth", some things are better left unsaid.

Discussing writing reminds me somewhat of attending a funeral. Each funeral I attend, each loved one I see lying in a casket, reminds me that one day, I, too, will "join that innumerable caravan." Therefore, each of these solemn occasions reminds me of the brevity of life and my desire to live a life more dedicated to God, Who gave me breath.

Likewise, each time I discuss writing, I'm impressed anew and afresh to make sure I do the best job I possibly can. I should do the best job I can, not only to make sure a story or person has been treated fairly — although that is vitally important — but mainly because "I have to live with myself."

That's why it is imperative that a writer maintains a "sensitive" conscience. By "sensitive", I don't mean weak, soft or vacillating. I mean the delicate balance of knowing what to say, how much to say and how to say it.

For instance, you don't use a bomb to kill a mouse. Neither do you blow situations all out of proportion because of petty little jealousies on the part of a writer. We, in the newspaper profession, don't MAKE the news — we only report what's already there.

One good thing about working on a newspaper — you are always receiving good tips or leads for good stories. But you must always sort out fiction from fact, hearsay from truth. And that's where good judgment comes in.

Do you run a certain story or not? Is it newsworthy? If we do a story on this, what angle do we use? Remember this, even though no story should ever be "slanted", every story has an angle.

And, I guess in the final analysis, that's the difference between writers of integrity and "yellow" journalists. The responsible journalist researches the facts and prints the truth as the facts reveal it.

The "yellow journalism" sheets (or rags) simply pick out the most spectacular parts of a story on an individual or incident, true or not, and feed them to their panting public.

And, unfortunately, some readers, like rats, like to feed on that garbage.

Legislation eases
eye transplants

By EDWARD E. MAHALAK
State Representative
38th District

A bill just passed by the House could significantly increase the supply of corneas made available for "eye" transplants.

The bill would permit, under certain circumstances, the removal of the corneas of deceased persons by or under the authority of a county medical examiner during the course of an autopsy if there is no objection by the next-of-kin.

Many persons who are blind or have seriously impaired vision can have their sight restored by a corneal transplant operation, which involves replacing the "clear window" at the very front of the eye.

This small part of the eye is removed from donors within six hours of their death and can be transplanted during the next few days.

Unfortunately, there is a shortage of corneal tissue in the Michigan Eye Bank, particularly of young, high quality tissue. Corneas from young persons is preferred simply because it lasts longer. Generally, the older the tissue the sooner it wears out.

In Michigan, there is a waiting list of 30 or 40 people for cornea transplants at any one time. The average wait is about three months.

In some emergency cases, in order to preserve a person's eyesight, corneal tissue must be obtained from other states.

Several other states have reacted to similar shortages by enacting laws which allow medical examiners to remove corneas or authorize their removal from bodies undergoing routine autopsies; often this tissue is from young persons who have died violently.

Those states include Maryland, Florida, Washington, Louisiana and Texas.

In Maryland, some 1,000 corneas per year have been removed since such a law was passed in 1975. This compares with about 300 corneas per year in Michigan, which is a much more populous state. Further, the average age of corneal tissue available for transplants is 35 years, compared to 55 years in Michigan.

The bill approved by the Michigan House, in addition to the requirement that there be no objection to cornea removal by the next-of-kin, would also require that an autopsy had already been ordered by the medical examiner, would not interfere with any further investigation or autopsy, and would not alter the post-mortem facial appearance of the deceased.

The bill would further provide that anyone authorized by the county medical examiner to remove the corneas of deceased persons would not be liable for civil lawsuit if it was later alleged that authorization for the removal was required of the next-of-kin.

The legislation is presently under Senate consideration.

It would be of considerable value to those persons in Michigan who would benefit from cornea transplant operations, but who now have to wait until the necessary tissue is available.

The bill does not require a medical examiner to do anything. Rather, it simply permits a medical examiner to remove or authorize removal of the cornea during a routine autopsy.

According to an eye bank official from Maryland, where a similar law was passed in 1975, there have been no complaints about the procedure there despite the average of 1,000 cornea removals a year.

Medical examiners have wide-ranging authority now to conduct autopsies regardless of the objections of relatives, and it is considered impractical with the time frame involved in cornea removals to require medical examiners to seek out persons to provide authorization.

The bill is supported by the Michigan State Medical Society, the Department of Public Health, the Michigan Eye Bank, the Michigan Hospital Association, the Michigan Ophthalmological Society, the medical examiners in Wayne and Oakland Counties, and the chairmen of the departments of ophthalmology at the University of Michigan, Wayne State University and Michigan State University.

The bill, as approved by the House by a unanimous vote, would expire at the end of 1982, which would give the Legislature a chance to review its effectiveness and, if it is successful, to renew it.

In other recent action, the House approved a bill that will make it easier for landlords to conform to the new Truth in Renting Act, which goes into effect July 1. It prohibits clauses in leases which require tenants to waive rights that legally cannot be waived or to excuse landlords from responsibilities they cannot legally be excused from.

On conflict question

Kelly declines to issue opinion

BY MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

An attorney general's opinion that apparently raises more questions than it answers has prompted Westland Councilman Gail McKnight to seek a ruling from the State Bar Ethics Committee as to whether or not her jobs as Westland councilman and assistant county prosecutor are incompatible.

Last December, fellow council member Justine Barns sent Attorney General Frank Kelley a request through State Rep. Thomas Brown, asking his opinion on the possible incompatibility.

At that time, the attorney general had just issued an opinion in a Saginaw case where he said that the jobs of county assistant prosecutor and township treasurer in that county were incompatible.

Because of that ruling, Mrs. Barns questioned Mrs. McKnight's two positions.

But the response received from Kelley this week satisfies neither Mrs. Barns nor Mrs. McKnight.

Kelley sent the council an opinion regarding compatibility issued by the State Bar Ethics Committee, which addressed the role of a prosecuting attorney who was also serving as a board member of a local bank.

Kelley's letter noted that the Ethics Committee determined those two positions to be incompatible because, among other things, the bank could be a potential defendant of the prosecutor.

He added "this same rationale is applicable to the case at hand (Mrs. McKnight's case)."

The attorney general went no further, citing no legal case precedents or rulings as he usually does in issuing opinions. He did not address the specifics of Mrs. McKnight's case, or Mrs. Barns' request at all.

He concluded that the Ethics Committee ruling eliminated the need for an opinion from him.

Mrs. Barns is trying to decide how to pursue the issue further, whether to again ask for an opinion, or try some other route to get her question answered.

"He didn't even cite the Saginaw case I mentioned," Mrs. Barns complained. "And I don't like him relating it to a case involving the private sector (a bank) rather than the public sector (such as the city council)."

"Why doesn't he answer the question?" she said. "Why did he use an Ethics Committee report?"

Mrs. Barns noted that last year when four Westland councilmen, including Mrs. McKnight, were being recalled, Mrs. McKnight managed to get an attorney general's opinion pertaining to the time frame for collection of signatures within a week. (The courts eventually ruled contrary to that opinion.)

"Why could she get such an on point answer, when I can't? Is it the difference of the issues, or the personalities?"

But Mrs. Barns added that she believes the bottom line in Kelley's response does indicate that Mrs. McKnight's two positions are incompatible, since he says the rationale in the banker's case is applicable to Mrs. McKnight.

Mrs. McKnight is equally unsatisfied with the non-answer answer of the attorney general.

Her first complaint is that she never got the chance to present her case to Kelley. She said Sen. William Faust was going to notify her when Kelley began work on the opinion, so she could present her facts. But there was no chance for that, because there really was no opinion.

Rather than wait for a reaction from Mrs. Barns, and with full awareness of upcoming city elections this fall when she will seek reelection, Mrs. McKnight will seek resolution of the issue herself.

"As a matter of personal professional concern rather than as a matter of law, I intend to seek a State Bar Ethics Opinion on my own personal situation.

"This solution seems more reasonable than seeking an additional clarification from the attorney general, as he is under no obligation to respond, while the State Bar Ethics Committee must respond to all requests.

"I seek this clarification to settle the issue even though Mrs. Barns has never alleged one specific act of wrongdoing on my part as I have worked on behalf of the city and of the county."

She said she checked with her superiors at the prosecutors office, and they told her they never received one complaint or allegation of conflict.

Mrs. McKnight reiterated that county policy and the nature of her job in the juvenile division would preclude a conflict from ever arising.

She once again labelled Mrs. Barns' motives as "purely political," although Mrs. Barns denied that in December by saying that if she wanted to create a political issue she would have waited until the fall elections.

Mrs. McKnight added: "Excluding Mrs. Barns, all other Westland councilmen have full-time employment, and there is always a possibility that a conflict might arise between one's full-time and part-time lives."

She noted that three councilmen work for Ford Motor Company, and the city buys Ford vehicles all the time. Two council members are in the field of education, and find themselves in a position to "vote on funds for area school districts."

VISTA workers are needed

"There are no easy solutions to poverty. We know that hand-outs don't work. The only way that the problems of poverty will be solved is by low-income people working together to help each other and their communities. That is what VISTA is trying to bring about," maintains Margery Tabankin, director of VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America), which is part of ACTION, the federal volunteer service agency. "VISTA volunteers encourage and support the cooperative efforts of low-income citizens to fill their own needs, obtain services and participate fully in the decisions which affect their communities and their lives."

Today, approximately 4,280 VISTA volunteers serve in low-income communities in the United States, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam. This represents an increase of 24 percent — or more than 1,000 volunteers than there were two years ago. Plans are for yet another 1,000 by early 1980.

Between April and November of this year, VISTA hopes to recruit at least 2,300 men and women to serve for one year as volunteers. Mature people of all ages, with or without college degrees, will be sought.

VISTA is growing not only in numbers of volunteers, but in numbers of people served by each volunteer. A few years ago, VISTA focused on providing individual services, which often ended with the departure of the volunteers.

VISTA volunteers try to work themselves out of jobs in health, nutrition, education, energy conservation, economic development and other community service programs by enabling low-income citizens to take over the projects themselves. For information on VISTA, volunteer programs include the Peace Corps, Foster Grandparent Program, Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) and Senior Companion Program.

Heart disease is the leading cause of death in the State of Michigan. The incidence of heart attack and stroke has decreased somewhat over the last three years, but not sufficiently enough to satisfy all health experts.

The Michigan Heart Association, a member of the United Way of Michigan, believes that education is the tool. By utilizing volunteers from the community, Michigan Heart promotes prudent heart living through Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) training, blood pressure screenings and educational programs.

Under the auspices of the Southern Wayne Heart Units Cardiac Education Committee, a series of Post Coronary Care Classes will be held in the downriver area. The series is free to all interested individuals and is aimed at post coronary patients, their families and anyone interested in maintaining "heart health."

The classes will be held at Wyandotte General Hospital, 2333 Biddle, in Multipurpose Room B. The opening night's discussion will begin at 7 p.m. April 23, and follow for the next four consecutive Mondays. Attendance at all sessions is not mandatory.

For more information, phone the Michigan Heart Association at 557-9500, ext. 39.

Clawson is Cherry Hill 'Waterloo'

Spartans fall in regional finals, 61-59

Beautiful game.
Lousy finish.
And, to use a cliché, it was a game that could have gone either way but, unfortunately for Cherry Hill's loyalists it went Clawson's way.
Clawson, behind some exceptional shooting by Marty Clary and Jeff Vlahakis, and a 21 of 28 performance at the free throw line, destroyed Cherry Hill's plans for a Class B regional basketball championship 61-59 Friday night at Oakland University.

It was the second time in as many years that Coach Dick McNally's Spartans had reached the regional finals only to be detoured from advancing to the quarter-finals. Last year it was state-finalist, Ecorse, that stopped the Spartans.
"Anyone who watched the game knows that our kids played their hearts out," McNally said. "I'm proud of this bunch. They have accomplished a lot and when you consider they were only a few seconds away from reaching the state quarter-finals, well, that speaks for itself."

Cherry Hill saw three last second, but desperation shots, bounce off the rim during an explosive fourth period.

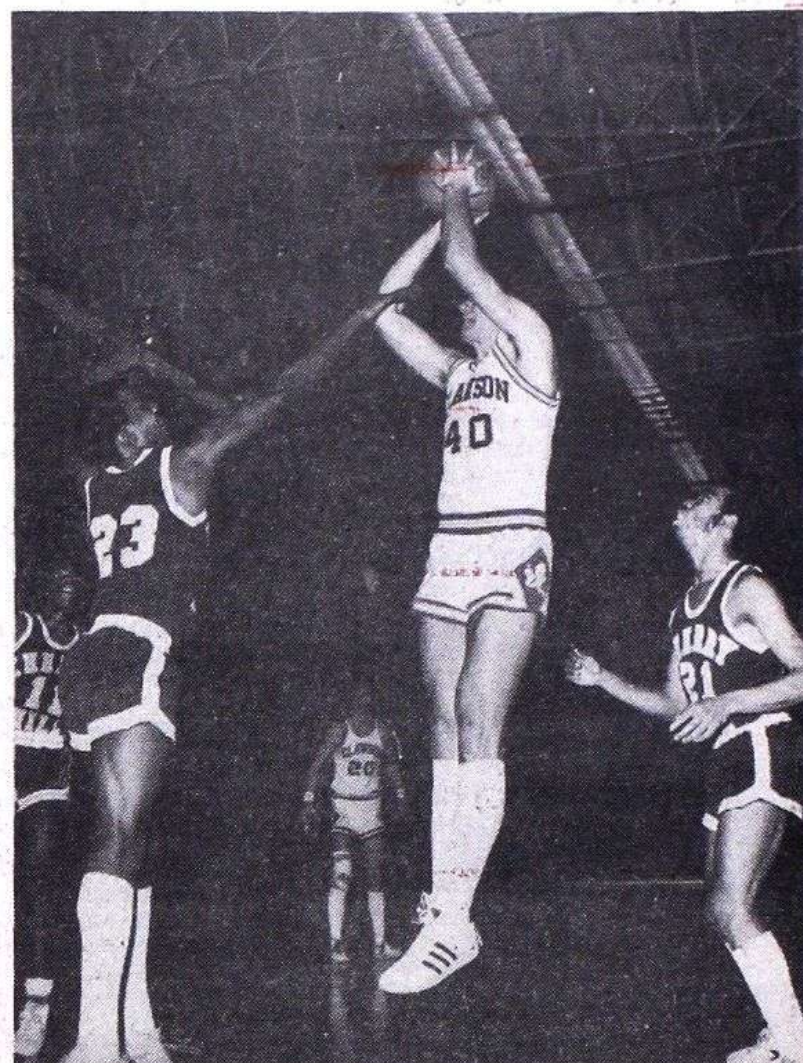

"The ball just wouldn't drop in," said McNally. "And, what can you do?"

The loss ended a 20-5 won-lost season for the Spartans.

Floyd Simmons, recently named to the Class B all-state team, turned in another one of his sensational performances as he led the Spartans with 24 points. Teammate Pierre Hudson chipped in 18, but the two

Firing line

Cherry Hill's George Johnson (23) belatedly lunges forward in order to thwart a jumper by Clawson's Dan Schwartz (40) while sophomore guard Greg Thompson (21) watches. In the action at the left, high-flying Floyd Simmons (dark jersey) has the edge and the rebound in Friday night's thriller at Oakland University. Simmons turned in another spectacular performance and scored 21 points but the Spartans failed to stop a hot-shooting Clawson quintet which won the Class B regional title and advanced to the state quarter-finals.

Davis bids basketball 'good-bye'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The hair is completely white now, and there are a few more wrinkles under the eyes.

But the smiles are still there and I don't think they will ever fade from Gordie Davis's face.

"I have something important to tell you," said the soft-spoken, personable John Glenn coach. "Are you going to be in your office?"

Must be important, I thought, if Davis doesn't want to handle this discussion over the telephone.

"Sure, Gordie, come on over," I replied.

A few minutes later Davis was banging on the door and I let him in.

"Did you get the all-league team?" Davis asked.

GORDIE DAVIS

Hell, now he didn't come all the way down here on a Sunday to tell me about the Northwest Suburban selections, did he? Davis hands me a slip a paper with the names of the players who were picked, then asked, "Hey, do you have any action shots of our team?"

"Sure, Gordie, help yourself." And I hand him a box filled with recent photos. Davis goes through the stack and then asks, "Could I have these?"

"Sure, sure. O.K. Gordie, let's have it," I finally say. "I've known you for 11 years now and you've never acted this way. What's bugging you? Is it the coverage? One of my stories - come on, what is it?"

"I'm quitting," Davis said.

"You're what?"

"I'm quitting. This was my last year," replied Davis. "And I thought since you've been so kind to us and the team I'd let you know."

"O.K. What college grabbed you?" I asked.

"It's nothing like that, really, Tom. I love basketball and the kids I have coached have been just great. It's just that my family comes first. And I want to spend all the time I can with them."

The announcement caught me off guard. Gordie had been ill, in fact, he underwent an operation a year ago for a slipped disc - and it's no secret that Mrs. Davis has been in-and-out of hospitals this past year but she "is doing fine now," Gordie says.

But, I guess there comes a time in everyone's life when he or she has to make some decisions about the direction that life is going. Anyway, the fact is that one of the area's most successful and personable coaches has decided to call it quits.

And, strangely enough, I remember when Gordie first picked up the team at Glenn. It was one of the worst in the area, a team that was a doormat in the conference and had to shake a losing philosophy.

Davis had his work cut out for him. He didn't then or did he ever really have height on his teams, with the exception of maybe all-stater Dave Carlington (6-4) and Brian Kaluzny (6-3). But Gordie managed to put together "hard-working players" who managed to eventually win five Northwest Suburban Conference championships and two Class A district titles.

And, during the Davis years the Rockets earned the respect of beating a team to be reckoned with. One can only speculate what Gordie would have done if he ever found that elusive 'big man', a 6-6 or 6-7 pivotman who seem to grow and flourish in other areas.

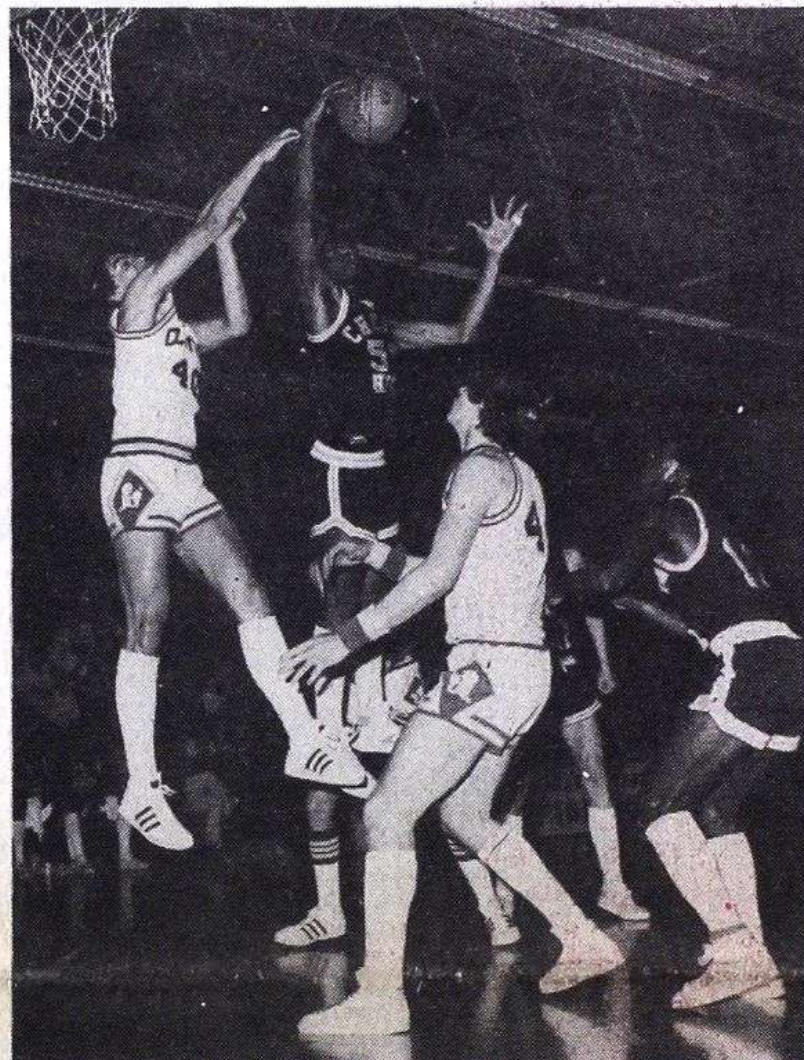

This year Gordie's team compiled a 17-5 won-lost record, went undefeated in the league for the second consecutive year, then lost to Plymouth Canton in a triple overtime in the district semi-finals. That thrilling game was to be Davis' last as the Rockets' head coach.

"I know that I'm going to miss basketball, and the kids and coaching," said Davis.

The 18-year-old, 6-1, 175-pound quarterback, Korte will continue his education and football career at Eastern Michigan University next fall.

Korte was named the All-Great Lakes 8 Conference QB and earned similar accolades as a member of the elite All-Area grid team.

State high school cage finals on Channel 56

The finals for the state high school basketball championships will be televised live on Channel 56 on Saturday, March 24, starting at 11 a.m.

With Cherry Hill's demise at the hands of Clawson and Plymouth Salem's downfall at Livonia Franklin, the last of the area hopefuls has been eliminated from the state tournaments.

The basketball finals are the culmination of three weeks of tournament play involving every high school basketball team in the state.

Channel 56 will carry finals from all four classes: A, B, C, and D.

At 11 a.m., the Class B state finalists will take the floor at University of Michigan's Crisler Arena, followed by the Class A championship at 2:30 p.m.

The Class D championship will be decided at 7 p.m. and the Class C at 8:30 p.m.

The high school championship games will be produced by the PBS station MCMU-Mt. Pleasant, the same station that handled the Mid-American Conference basketball games earlier this season.

Peterson captures 2 state swim titles

Plymouth Canton's sensational 17-year-old Paul Peterson turned in a couple of dazzling performances to win a pair of gold medals at the Class A state swimming finals held over the weekend at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Peterson, a junior, became the first swimmer in his high school's young history to win state titles in swimming.

The mainstay of Coach Bill Faunce's team, Peterson splashed his way to a thrilling victory in the 100-yard butterfly en route to a 52.39 finish.

Later, Peterson duplicated his winning performance but this time showing his versatility as he churned a 59.40 in earning the state's crown for the 100-yard breaststroke.

Peterson joins an elite group in Plymouth who have traditionally made the area strong in the strong. Salem won the Class A state swim title back in 1961 and has had other state swim champs. The Canton sensation, though, is the first to win two events on the state level, according to John Sandmann, the school district's athletic director.

Canton Coach Bill Faunce labeled Peterson's victories as "great."

"I feel Paul was ready for this meet both physically and mentally," said the Canton coach. "It was his goal to win and he did it."

Canton's medley relay team was edged out of a medal when it finished 13th, despite setting a school record for the performance.

Peterson joined Bob Cline, Ron Hurley and Dave Tanner in combining for a 1:43.2.

"It was the second straight year that we set a record in the event and also missed getting a medal by one spot," Faunce said. "The top 12 finishers at state receive medals."

The championships capped a 12-0 dual meet season, the first undefeated year for Canton which won its first Western Six Conference title.

Weekly picked the 6-5 pivotman to its NCAA III Division First Team picked up another honor this week.

Nibert was named to the All-American Academic squad, also a first for Albion and the area. Boasting a 3.7 (out of a possible 4.0) scholastic average for the past two years, John added another honor to his ever-increasing accomplishments.

Wayne Memorial and Natalie Kozorosky also made history this past weekend.

Miss Kozorosky, a sophomore, became the first gymnast in the school's history to win a medal in state-wide competition. Natalie finished fifth in the floor exercises at the Class A State Championships held Saturday at Arbor College near Jackson.

Miss Kozorosky's 8.5 score for the event earned for her a medal, the first ever produced by a Wayne gymnast at the state finals. The pretty 15-year-old also has established herself as one of the potential candidates to watch for state honors. She still has two years of eligibility ahead of her.

Pat Nally, whose debate teams at Westland John Glenn are among the best in the area, managed to successfully argue for some space in this column, pointing out "that the following is definitely a sports article."

"I play for a softball team called the 'Pedagogues,'" said Nally, "and we're one of the better Class C teams in the Westland Parks and Recreation Softball League."

"And we're a team made up of mostly teachers," continued Nally. "To make a long story short, what we need this year is a team sponsor, and we thought maybe you could help us out by publicizing our problem."

If there is anyone out there who would like to sponsor a men's softball team, please contact Nally at 728-1800.

Boy, those 3-mills must have meant a lot to you guys, Pat. One more note: I don't mind using letters, but they definitely have to be signed. The newspapers' policy is that we will withhold the name of the writer, but the letter must signed. Thank you.

Tryouts scheduled

Belleville-Van Buren baseball officials have set aside three days for junior league registration.

Players who wish to sign up and try out for the Little League this summer should report to the Belleville High School diamonds at 3 p.m., Saturday, April 7, or 2 p.m. Sunday, April 8 or 5:30 p.m., Monday, April 9.

Little League baseball competition is open to all boys and girls, ages 9 through 12, who wish to play either softball or hardball.

One criterion in order to be eligible to play in the local leagues is that each player must sign up and try out for the team. All boys and girls 8-years-old are eligible to play in the T-Ball League. Players must register their names at the ball field but try outs are not held for this specific league.

Further information may be obtained by telephoning Eunice Kause, league secretary, at 697-0736.

Finest swim team in Great Lakes 8

Though they are too numerous to identify, Wayne Memorial swimmers again left an indelible mark upon the Great Lakes 8 Conference this season as Coach Jim McPartlin's swimmers captured their third consecutive league championship. The Zebras did it in perfect style, winning all seven league dual meets to stretch their victory string in the conference to 21 consecutive meets. They then went on to win the conference meet. McPartlin will lose one of his key performers in record-holder Dave Hills, a freestyler, but the Zebras will undoubtedly be in good shape to defend their title a year from now from the looks of their numbers above.

Over 30 hockey champs

Winning 15 of their scheduled 20 games, Brocks Homes claimed the 1979 version of the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey Championship. Members of the team are Ed Mac (front row, from left) John Dombrowski, Jim Gibson, Ken Carter and Gordie Heebsh; second row are Dave Zajac, Mike Poupore, and Dave Harris; third row are Dick Burns, team sponsor Buddy Brock, Tom Tucker and Rod Dittmar. Brock's is shooting for the playoff title as the league winds down the season with its final tournament.

Brock's is home of Over 30 Wayne-Westland champs

With an impressive 6-3 triumph over Huron Valley Total, Brocks Homes captured the 1978-79 Over 30 Wayne-Westland Hockey League Championship.

The champs ended the regular season campaign with an enviable 15-3-2 won-lost-record, earning the top rung over runner-up, Jack's Sports which finished the year with a 13-6-1 mark.

Brocks didn't waste any time establishing its superiority over the upset-minded Huron contingent who gave up three goals in the first period and trailed 3-1. Rod Dittmar led the assault as he struck for a pair of goals while mates Bud Brock, Dave Fishwick, Ken Carter and Dave Zajac helped in a supporting cast with one goal each.

Huron's tallies went to Barry Anderson, Ray Gabbert and Dan Demers.

Meanwhile, Jack's watched as its title dreams shattered when sixth-place TasteFreez forced the runner-up to settle for a 6-all tie.

At one crucial point Jack's trailed by as much as 5-1 before they got down to the serious business of making up the incredible difference. Jerry Robertson's goal with 10 seconds left in the game capped the Jack's surge and knotted the game.

Jack's also received goals from Jerry Grube, Jerry Howley, Bill McCusker, Dave Roberts and Chuck Jennett.

Norm Beasley's hat trick highlighted the Freez' attack while teammate Corky Hays notched a pair of goals and Mo Paquette also scored.

Four-Seasons hung on to beat a determined Johnson Carbonic contingent 7-5 as John Clearwood turned in a two-goal scoring performance and Bill Creekmore also had two goals for the winners.

Adding solos were Ron Wojewski, Terry Boote, and Tom Dilaure. Ron Johnson's two goals paced the losers who also received goals from Dennis Broge, Bob Murray and John Castellanos.

A second period goal by John David robbed Tim Vanderburgh of a shutout as Futurama defeated Extra Point Bar 3-1 in a well-played game. Scoring for the winners was Tom Bryans, Keith Middaugh and Perry Toepfer.

They did it again

Though their numbers have thinned, and they got off to a slow start, four-time Tri-River Conference swim champ Cherry Hill managed to salvage half of the title to win its fifth consecutive league swim crown. Proudly displaying their championship trophies are members of the Cherry Hill squad. They are John Teschke (smiling, from left in front row), Jeff Pryor (co-captain), Tracy Hissong (co-captain) and Phil Madaj. In the second row are Mike Baruzzini, Dave Linden, Karen Trudeau, Curt McNamara and Ramon Lara. Not available at the time of the photo are coach Wayne Beerbower, team members LeRoy Walton and diver Karl Mikula.

Reitz in NAIA tourney

Gene Reitz, a sophomore from New Boston Huron, is a member of the Grand Valley State's NAIA District 23 championship basketball team.

A sharpshooting guard, Reitz helped the Lakers pull out a thrilling come-from-behind 45-44 victory over Hillsdale College last week. The Lakers scored the last six points in the final 30 seconds to survive.

Grand Valley is 25-4 on the season and has accepted a bid to travel to Kansas City to play in the NAIA National Tournament scheduled for March 12-17.

Reitz, a 5-11 guard, has scored 12 points in 10 games coming off the bench for the Lakers.

Cherry Hill regional dreams are shattered couldn't offset Clawson's balance and exceptional clutch free throw shooting.

Simmons hit his first three corner shots and Gary Williams tipped in a misguided jumper to give Cherry Hill an 8-4 lead after Clary sank his first two jumpers.

With both teams playing zone, the corners to those defenses were vulnerable and that's where the initial strategy was directed.

Hudson contributed a pair of free throws to give Cherry Hill a 10-6 lead, but Clary came back with his third and fourth baskets of the first period to make it a 10-8 game. George Johnson and Hudson then countered with drive-in layups and with 1:39 left in the period, the Spartans had a 14-10 lead.

Two costly turnovers by the Spartans and Jeff Ross' basket plus Vlahakis's free throw and at-the-buzzer corner jump shot gave Clawson the lead for the first time, 15-14.

Clawson's lead didn't last long as Simmons again hit his first shot to put the Spartans ahead 16-15. Hudson and Ross exchanged baskets and when Simmons sank a short jumper Cherry Hill hung on to their three-point edge, 20-17.

Aaron Gregory, moved into the lineup to give the Spartans some rebounding power, fouled Don White who made both ends of a one-and-one (20-19), but two quick baskets by the Spartans scoring duo - Simmons and Hudson - gave them a 24-19 cushion.

When Johnson sank a pair of free throws, Cherry Hill again had a five point lead, 26-21, and the momentum and an exchange of baskets between Gregory and Hopp kept the status quo (28-23) with 2:54 left in the half.

Clary then sank a pair of free throws and then Simmons and his younger brother, Andy, tossed in jumpers, making it a 32-25 ball game.

Vlahakis hit a gain and Clary got a pair of free throws after a couple of key Spartan turnovers to bring the Trojans back. With 1:01 left, Hudson drove in for a layup but again Clary replied with a corner jumper as the half ended with the Spartans ahead 34-31.

Cherry Hill's problems started with the third period when the Spartans collected a total of 10 points - four by Simmons, a basket apiece from Greg Thompson, Williams and Hudson and wound up trailing 46-44 at the end of the quarter.

Clawson made seven consecutive free throws as Cherry Hill unsuccessfully fought to regain the lead. Vlahakis started it off by canning a pair of chairites and an exchange of turnovers returned the ball to Cherry Hill who went to their trump, Simmons. He barked in a corner shot and made it 48-46 Clawson.

Then, Clawson's 6-4 Dan Schwartz sank a couple of fouls (50-46) and when Ross fouled Thompson with 6:01 left, the sophomore guard made the first of a two-foul shot, bringing the Spartans within three. Johnson then collected his fourth personal and Ross cashed in on both attempts (52-47). Simmons responded with a drive-in layup but was fouled. He made both ends and, after a Clawson time out, and a subsequent turnover, Hudson sank a layup making it anyone's ball game.

Seconds later Vlahakis was at the line again, and he made the front end of a one-and-one and missed the second, the rebound going to Williams.

When the action resumed, Schwartz and Simmons exchanged baskets and Hudson then tied it up for the first time in the second half on another one of his dazzling layups, making it 55-all.

It was downhill however for the Spartans from therein.

Schwartz scored for Clawson and Johnson then collected his fifth personal foul which Hopp then proceeded to put to good use.

Hudson kept Spartan's retinue hoping when he sank two free throws with 1:44 left to bring his team within a basket of catching up (59-57). But Clary was fouled with 30 seconds left and he sank both chances (61-57).

With less than 30 seconds left, Andy Simmons hit the target and Clawson immediately gave the ball back to the Spartans via a midcourt offensive foul.

There were 12 seconds left and the Spartans had three shots at the basket, but the ball refused to go in.

Lee Vandecar completes 35 years with U.S. Government

A new gold service pin from the U.S. Government is currently being worn by a New Boston resident, Leland Vandecar, who recently completed 35 years as a government employee.

LELAND VANDECAR

Vandecar, who works at the Detroit Metropolitan Airport weather office, may well be the voice that answers your queries when you dial for the area's "official" temperature.

His career in government service began when he enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps on June 16, 1942. In August of that year he was stationed at Navy North Island in San Diego, Calif. where he began a career in weather at the aerology office.

He graduated from the navy school of aerology at Lakehurst, N.J. in 1942 and the following year opened the aerology office at the U.S. Marine Corps base in Santa Barbara, Calif. That same year he attended the University of South Southern California and studied meteorology.

During the last two years of World War II, he was stationed with the Fourth Marine Air Wing and Marine Air Group 13 in the South and Central Pacific regions and worked as a weather forecaster.

After his stint with the marines, he returned to study chemistry at Michigan State Normal College (now Eastern Michigan University.) In June, 1944, he returned to government service with the U.S. Weather Bureau at Willow Run Airport. In 1968, when the office at Ypsilanti was closed, he transferred to Detroit Metropolitan Airport's weather office.

With Vandecar when he received his service pin from officer in charge, Gordon Trapp, on behalf of the U.S. Government, were his wife, Cora, and son Daniel.

The Vandecars, who reside at 14926 Haggerty Rd., New Boston, have another son, Richard, currently serving as a drill instructor with the U.S. Marine Corps in San Diego, Calif. They also have three daughters: Mrs. Donald (Karla) Clark of Belleville; Mrs. Charles (Karen) Struble of Carleton and Mrs. William (Kay) Villa of Milan.

A 1939 graduate of Belleville High School, Leland is the son of Mrs. Fannie Vandecar of Haggerty Road, Belleville.

Romulus No.1 Seniors pay tribute to St. Pat

The new president of Romulus Senior Citizens Club No. 1, David Ries, begins his club report this month with the following tribute:

"It is with deep regret that I mention the passing of an old-time friend and Club No. 1 member who left us on March 4 after several months of illness and hospitalization. Charlie Kitzmiller was always ready and willing to lend a helping hand to anyone. He will be deeply missed by the membership but as always, life must go on."

On March 13 the group celebrated St. Patrick's Day with the wearing of the green and singing of Irish songs. The hall was decorated in the traditional green streamers and shamrocks but no leprechauns, we hear, were in evidence. Music was provided by the Senior Combo.

Bessie Barton, who is 81 years young, became a member recently as did Della Shaffer while Kate Petrula was reinstated.

Romulus Mayor William Oakley is scheduled to speak at the March 20 meeting.

A 50-50 raffle will be held March 29 during Michigan Week. Three prizes will be awarded and it is not necessary to be present to win.

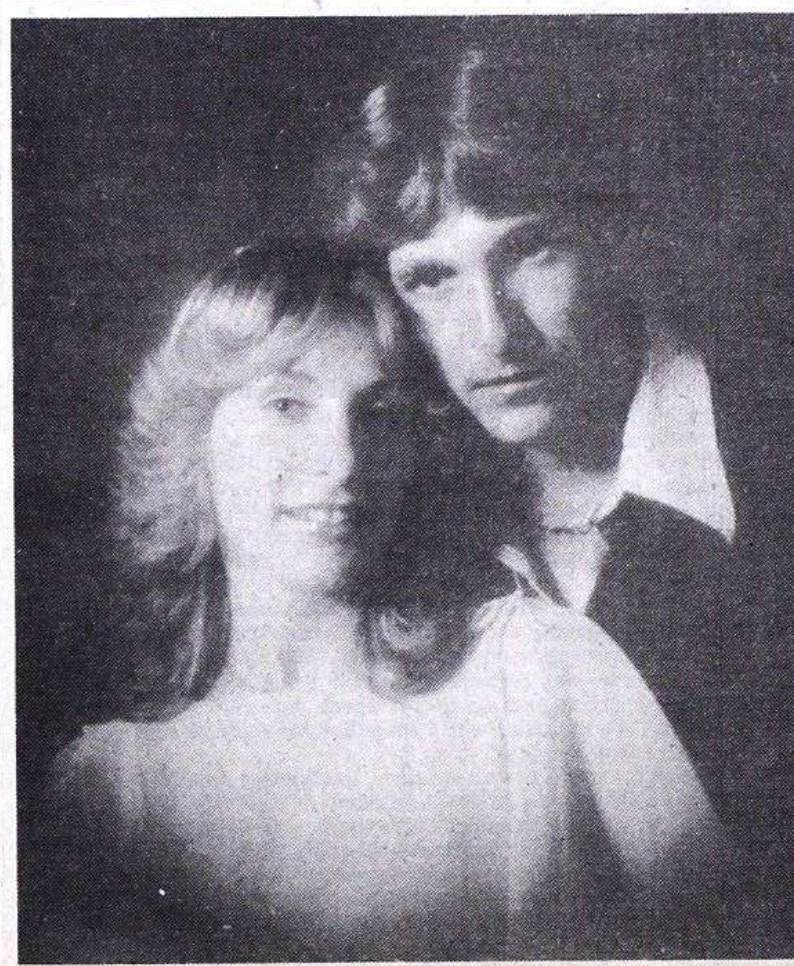

On March 27 the club will hold a potluck and bingo.

Lioness officers briefed

At a recent dinner-dance at the PNA Hall, Lion District Governor Henry D. Striker Jr. installed the new officers of the newly-formed Belleville Lioness Club. Inducted as heads of the 23-member group were Janice Fowler, charter president; Lillie Montgomery, charter vice-president; Gayle Nash, charter secretary; Georgetta Bricks, charter treasurer; Fern Koeppel, 2-year director; Mary Pokorwinski and Muriel Wolfe, 1-year directors,

They'll marry May 25

The engagement of Rachael A. Wilson and Mark A. Gardner is announced by their parents, Patricia Wilson of 59 S. Biggs St., Belleville, and Jerry and Betty Gardner of 64112 Eight Mile Rd., South Lyon. A 1976 graduate of Belleville High School, Miss Wilson is currently working as an executive secretary at Comshare Inc. in Ann Arbor. Her fiancé graduated from South Lyon High School in 1975 and is now employed as a heavy equipment operator for LaChance Bros. Excavating of South Lyon. The couple plan to be married May 25 after which they will reside in South Lyon.

Expected heir 'outfitted' at recent cradle shower

Pink and blue was the color scheme Feb. 25 when Laurel Roberts of Liberty Street in Belleville played hostess at a cradle shower honoring her friend and co-worker, Paula Davidson of Garden City. The traditional baby colors were used in the corsage presented to the honoree and on the shower cake which was adorned with booties, storks and rattles.

The 19 guests, mostly working associates of the mother-to-be from the J.C. Penney restaurant in Westland, also included the expected heir's two grandmothers-to-be, Peggy Genta and Jinny Davidson. The party list was comprised of women from Wayne, Westland, Allen Park, Canton, Inkster, Redford Township, Garden City, Berkeley and Belleville.

Punch was served as guests arrived. Party sandwiches, assorted salads, relishes, cake and coffee comprised the lunch which followed.

Prizes for games played were won by Laura Bowles, Marilyn Coyle, Sandy Ritter and Sheila Sheffler, all of Westland; and Linda Linch of Canton. Ms. Sheffler also took home the door prize.

The many lovely and useful gifts opened by the guest of honor also included a clever gag gift — a beautifully wrapped package containing her own "retired" waitress shoes which, being in dire need of repair, she had tossed in the trash the last day at work. Suddenly — there they were again, beautifully painted in gold. (A "bronzed" set of shoes for her dresser?)

Women as entrepreneurs? Class to discuss outlook

6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Gwen Arnold, business instructor, will teach the class, addressing in particular the question, "Is starting a business easier than climbing a corporate ladder?" The seminar, for which there is a $5 charge, will be given in Room 1706 of the College's Student Center Building at 4800 East Huron River Drive. Advanced registration is requested by phoning 482-2230.

Salley clan proclaiming - 'Hooray, it's a girl, at last!'

The baby girl born Jan. 8 to Greg and Deborah Salley of Rawsonville Woods, Belleville, formerly of Wayne, is not only the couple's first child, but also has the honor of being the first girl born in the Salley family in over 34 years.

The baby, named Karen Nicole, weighed seven pounds - 12 ounces at birth at Woman's Hospital, Ann Arbor.

She is the first granddaughter for Lester and Lillian Salley of Wayne, who also have two grandsons, and also is a grand child for Wade and Martha Warner of Canton, formerly of Westland.

potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

It's one of those weeks, folks — I have been so preoccupied with moving preparations that I can't seem to get any journalistic feedback from the cerebral computer.

Instead of handing me a lead item for "potpourri", it has me on hold-repeat and I keep getting the same old messages — decide on new stove and dryer... pick out new phones... send girls' housing check... call about moving grandmother clock... finish packing the 'fragiles'... movers coming Monday... get hair cut... decide what's for sale... get into attic... get into attic... get into attic.

Next week's column should be no problem at all cuz once we tackle our little second-level treasure trove (junk heap?), I should have lots of input for the typewriter.

I could chat a bit about what it's like preparing to move (it's been YEARS since we handled that scene) and what we've accumulated (I'm a pack rat) but guess I'll just give ink to some other subjects and put "the big move" on hold for now.

IT SEEMS A BIT EERIE but once an off-beat, subject is introduced, it seems that same topic KEEPS cropping up in other conversations, and, coincidentally, on TV, in the newspapers, magazines, etc. One such item of late has been, the gifted child — that special breed of youngster who seems to be bypassed in our schools. Whereas the slow learners and handicapped are given special attention, the extremely bright child gets no particular notice (other than "Gee, he's smart!")

"The talents of a gifted child who's not encouraged may simply dry up," says Bernard S. Miller, director of the Hunter College Campus Schools for gifted children.

Unfortunately, public schools often can't handle the situation so it is left up to the parents or guardians to provide the child with plenty of stimulation.

If you suspect you might have just such an offspring (from the clues to follow) it is up to you to take him to concerts, plays, libraries, museums; play games and sports; begin music, ballet, art, swimming lessons; do scientific experiments, etc.

Watch for these signs (and others) in your brighter-than-usual daughter or son: an unusual attention span; talkativeness and a large vocabulary; the ability to understand relationships between people or between things; enjoyment of toys, games and puzzles designed for older children; great curiosity.

For further information on what parents can do, write to the National-State Leadership Training Institute on the Gifted and Talented, 316 West Second St., Suite PH-C, Los Angeles, Calif., 90012. Or send for "What if Your Child is Gifted?" (No. 642F), free from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

Don't let those special attributes slip away.

Here's a little something for all the golfers getting ready (chompin' at the bit) for their Easter vacations in the sunny south.

GOLFER NO. 1 — "What do you mean you practiced golf all winter? In all that snow? How?"

GOLFER NO. 2 — "Well, I walked four miles to work every morning... swung my umbrella every 200 yards... cussed out my secretary... and had a Scotch and soda before going home."

WE'VE HEARD of bronzing baby shoes for posterity but — gilding the mama-to-be's Bass oxfords? Read about it in the baby shower story "Expected near", etc. here in the Suburban Living section.

And I'll bet when you call the weather station at Metro Airport you didn't know you might be asking the forecast from "one of our own". Read, too, about Lee Vandecar's 35 years with the U.S. Gov — most of which was spent dealing with the elements.

ALTHOUGH HIS LATEST BOOK, "Overload", contains a wealth of information on the electrical power we so take for granted, Arthur Hailey's main character leaves much to be desired. I guess I just don't enjoy a book where the central figure is a let-down, one I can't respect, and Nimrod (his name is Nimrod, yet!) does just that with his blase' philandering. It just seems that every woman he encounters wants to jump in bed with him and Hailey goes a bit overboard with some of Nim's trysts.

The basis for the story — loss of electrical power in California and the utility company's struggles with bureaucrats and do-gooders — IS interesting, exciting and timely but as for Nimrod... a jerk!

ANOTHER LENGTHY TOME recently completed is definitely for those of the World War II, espionage, intrigue, track 'em down ilk. "The Eye of the Needle", Kenneth Follett's first novel, deals with the fact that Germany's top secret agent discovers the location (Normandy) which the allied forces have chosen for the D-Day invasion.

When British Military Intelligence finally realizes who the man is, the chapters suddenly take on a momentum which keeps the old adrenalin moving, the hands a bit moist and the imagination rampant. The final chapters leave the reader almost limp from the tension which surrounds the agent's eventual Waterloo. NOT recommended for relaxed reading but, oh so good!

THE MOST RECENT BOOK handed over to a "fellow" reading buff is another autobiography dealing with the figures who make up the Washington, D. C. collage. (Marge at the Romulus Library has become quite aware of my reading habits and preferences and decided this new book would fit right in with all the other non-fiction I've read of late.)

"The First Lady's Lady" — With the Fords at the White House" is a day-by-day diary written by Betty Ford's press secretary Sheila Rabb Weidenfeld. One has only to read halfway through the book to realize why Gerald Ford never won a second chance at his office.

In her writings Weidenfeld stresses the importance of a "good press" — that what the public sees, reads and hears about the president and his family is of the utmost importance. And what Ford's own press people allowed to happen almost makes one cringe. — Another interesting view of the always-spotlighted Capitol Hill scene.

THE BOTTOM LINE: Capitol punishment in America — the income tax.

Karin Torres is 'home' on Recruiter Program

MISS TORRES

ASM Karin G. Torres, a 1978 graduate of Romulus High School is in the Navy and at home in Romulus assisting the local Navy recruiters. Karin enlisted in the Navy on Aug. 11, 1978 and following recruit training in Orlando, Fla., attended Aviation Ground Support Equipment Mechanics ASM "A" School at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, TN.

"It was all kind of a surprise to me, the Navy recruiters at the Wayne Recruiting Station requested me for the Recruiter Assistance Program (RAP) and the first I knew of it was when I got my orders out of "A" school," said Karin.

"I really like the Navy. I have learned alot and have had some good experiences. I am glad I joined the Navy. College seems like such a bore. In the Navy I can move around and learn while traveling," she said.

When Karin completes her 30 days of RAP duty she will be going to the Naval Air Station in Norfolk, Va.

Airman Torres is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Torres of 36863 McBride, Romulus. She will be working out of the newly established Romulus Recruiting Station, located in the Chamber of Commerce Building on Wayne Road.

The bride-elect has been employed as a nurse for the past four years in the office of Dr. Terry Overholser in Newcomerstown, Ohio. For March

Lawn and garden guide

If March is here, can spring be far behind? To get ready for it, Michigan State University Extension specialists suggest the following lawn and garden activities:

— Dethatch your lawn in late March or early April to remove matted grass and other debris.

— Seed bare spots with a blend of bluegrass varieties or bluegrass and red fescue (for shaded areas). Loosen the soil surface before seeding. Then rake the seed in and firm the soil. Keep newly seeded areas moist until grass is well established.

— Rake lawns to remove twigs, leaves and other debris.

— Roll severely frost-heaved lawns to level the turf. If rolling is necessary, do it before the turf dries out. Rolling after the lawn dries will do little good.

— If you didn't take your lawnmower in for an overhaul and sharpening last fall, do it now.

— Hold off fertilizing your bluegrass lawn this spring until the second half of May, especially if you applied a complete fertilizer or nitrogen in late fall. Early spring fertilizing and quick spring green-up have been linked to the development of Fusarium blight in susceptible bluegrass varieties. Wait to fertilize until the lawn begins to lose its dark green color.

— If you had a crabgrass problem last year, apply pre-emergence crabgrass controls before forsythia completes its bloom (in late March or early April).

— Fertilize shrubs, trees and perennials as they begin to grow.

— Remove burlap or canvas sunscreens from evergreens around mid-March.

— Repair snow damage to evergreens such as juniper, yew and boxwood. Prune out broken branches and stake or support branches that need it.

— Plan new gardens and tree and shrub plantings, and order plants soon.

— Move or plant ornamental trees and shrubs before the leaves come out. Leave the moving of large trees to your local nurseryman, who is trained and equipped to do the job efficiently and safely.

— Prune the old fruiting canes of red raspberries and thin out the weaker new canes. Cut self-supporting plants back to about 4-1/2 feet.

— Prune trees and grape vines. Do not prune spring-flowering shrubs like lilacs and forsythia unless they have been damaged. Pruning now would remove the buds for this year's flowers.

— Uncover, prune and fertilize established roses in late March. Be sure to remove all winter-damaged canes.

— Dig and prepare flower beds, garden plots and borders as soon as you can work the soil. If a handful of soil forms a wet clump when you squeeze it, it's too wet to work. It should crumble rather than cling together.

— Start seeds of cold-hardy vegetables indoors this month. These include the cole crops — cabbage, Brussels sprouts, broccoli and cauliflower — and spinach. Lettuce, onions, radishes and spinach can be planted outdoors in late March if the soil is thawed and workable.

— Start seeds of dusty miller, sweet alyssum, French marigold and flowering tobacco indoors for transplanting outdoors in May. For strong, compact plants, grow seedlings under Fluorescent lights for 12 to 16 hours a day.

— Plant seeds of pansy and English daisy outdoors.

— Check stored tubers and bulbs again and discard any showing signs of rot, mold or disease.

— Bring bulbs potted in November out of cold storage for forcing.

— Pot up tuberous begonias late this month.

— Keep amaryllis foliage growing to build up the bulb so it will bloom again next year. Later let it dry off for 8-12 weeks before attempting to reflower it.

— Remove part of the mulch from strawberry plants. But be ready to cover them again in case of a hard frost or freeze.

— Check houseplants for overcrowding, and divide and repot any that need it.

Hilberry stages 'Aldo'

One of Shakespeare's comic masterpieces, "Much Ado About Nothing", will officially open at 8:30 p.m. March 21 at the Wayne State University Hilberry Theatre, following previews on March 16-17. "Much Ado About Nothing" is most famous for the witty and charming characters Beatrice and Benedick, two avowed "enemies" who are tricked into each other's arms.

Intertwined with this plot is the dramatic story of Beatrice's kinswoman Hero, who is renounced by her bridegroom Claudio, is avenged and vindicated by Beatrice and Benedick and, accidentally, by constable Dogberry and his bumbling watchmen.

It has been said that both plots are developed by eavesdropping and overhearing, and that in Elizabethan English the title also means much ado about "nothing."

The Hilberry production is directed by Robert T. Hazzard, with costumes designed by Helen Markovitch and Jackie Durbin and lighting by Gary M. Witt.

The setting by Russel Smith is based on British scholar-designer C. Walter Hodges' drawings for a reconstructed Globe Theatre stage. The WSU Theatre is hosting an international symposium in May to discuss plans for a proposed full-scale reconstruction of the entire Globe Theatre, based on Hodges' designs.

The Hilberry's "Much Ado" features Dianne Winslow and Neil Thackaberry Jr. as Claudio, and Peter Van Wagner as Dogberry. Other principal roles are played by Von Washington, Mark Robbins and Richard Bradshaw.

For ticket information and reservations, write to the Hilberry Theatre box office (Cass and Hancock), Wayne State University, Detroit 48202, or call 577-2972.

"Much Ado" continued in the repertory through May 18, alternating with "Chemin de Fer" and, after April 20, with "The Duchess of Malfi."

Edison's 100th anniversary is observed

Visitors can commemorate the 50th anniversary year of Greenfield Village and Henry Ford Museum and the 100th anniversary year of the invention of Thomas Edison's incandescent lamp with a two-hour tour of the museum, focusing on the genius of Edison and other Americans.

Museum guides lead small groups through the Hall of Technology exhibits, pointing out Edison's inventions — such as the phonograph, the electric pen and the electric light — and other historically significant artifacts.

The tour also focuses on the Ford-Edison friendship — a relationship that helped to mold the village and museum. Henry Ford dedicated the village and museum to Edison at their founding on Oct. 21, 1929 — 50 years to the day after the invention of the electric light — and here amassed the nation's most comprehensive collections of Edison-related objects.

The collection areas of lighting and communications, home arts, and transportation are included in the tour. All these areas have been arranged into spacious and colorful exhibits and interpreted with new, more informative labels in honor of the golden anniversary of the village and museum. The artifacts in these areas include automobiles, locomotives, carriages, lighting devices, stoves, household utensils, steam engines, printing presses and much more.

The tours begin at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily, and are only available to regular museum visitors. The charge for the tours is an additional $2 for each adult above the cost of admission. There is no extra charge for the tour for children, ages 12 and under, accompanied by their parents.

Jazz-fusion band, Oregon, tops Schoolcraft concert

The critically acclaimed jazz-fusion band "Oregon" has been selected by Schoolcraft College student activities office to perform at its major winter semester concert.

The concert, slated for Friday evening, will be presented at the new Novi High School Auditorium on West 10 Mile Road in Novi. Tickets are $5 and $6 (all reserved seating) and are available at the Waterman Campus Center of Schoolcraft College in Livonia.

Oregon's musical range is unusually broad. Ralph Towner, Glen Moore, Collin Walcott and Paul McCandless are the four musicians who make up Oregon. Their biographies read like a contemporary musical who's who.

Towner, 38, probably is the best known member of Oregon. He is exceptional multi-instrumentalist and composer, and is likely to perform on the classical guitar, 12-string guitar, piano, French horn and flugelhorn, all in single evening.

Moore, 36, is primarily an acoustic bassist, but he also is proficient on flutes, piano, and describes himself as a "maverick violinist." He studied classical piano at an early age, and later sang and played with school choirs and orchestras. His formal bass study included lessons from Gary Karr. He has altered the tuning on his bass, extending the range of the bottom and top strings.

Walcott, 33, is one of the few American musicians to adapt to the rigors of Indian music with deep understanding and technical brilliance. Aside from countless percussion instruments, Walcott performs the most unusual double of playing both sitar and tabla.

Walcott also plays clarinet, guitar and even the violin.

McCandless, 31, grew up in the rural part of western Pennsylvania that borders West Virginia. He moved to New York in 1967 to study the oboe under Robert Bloom at the Manhattan School of Music. He also studied the flute and English horn extensively and performed with several different symphony orchestras.

McCandless also plays English horn, a woodwind instrument which, he says, "is a larger version of the oboe, with a tone closer to the range of the human voice, warmer, darker, and less piercing than the oboe."

Oregon was formed in 1970-71 by Towner, Moore, Walcott and McCandless while they were part of the Paul Winter Consort. Each member of the group has continued to pursue outside interests while maintaining a consistent schedule of performances and recordings as a band.

For further information, contact Shirley Lepler at 591-6400, ext.380.

In Music Hall appearance

Nikolais troupes mixes dancing and theatre

The most extraordinary combination of theater and dance can be seen at Detroit's Music Hall Center March 21 through 25 when the Nikolais Dance Theatre presents a startling view of modern dance through the abstract use of color, light and sound.

Director Alwin Nikolais has been called "a magician of movement, of music, of forms, and colors." He has left behind traditions of modern dance and created a concept of total theatre in which the dancer, lighting, costumes, music, masks and props play an equal part. In essence, Nikolais has turned dance into a multimedia production.

Described as "the guy with kaleidoscope eyes," Nikolais himself conceives every phase of a performance, turning the dancers into incredible shapes and forms. His swirling mixtures of electronic music and color create a dazzling spectacle that has mystified audiences all over the world. Former New York Times dance critic Clive Barnes of Nikolais said: "No one in today's theatre possesses a visually more innovative or original mind. With his widely beautiful stage effects and compelling multimedia switch-ons, he is, in my opinion, the greatest pure showman in American theatre."

The 10 members of the Nikolais Dance Theatre have made six major European tours, as well as tours of the Middle East, Japan and the Far East. They have regularly travelled through South America and Mexico and are now on tour throughout the United States, ending with a home season in

New York in April. In May the company departs for another European tour, segments of which will be sponsored by the U.S. Department of State.

The Nikolais Dance Theatre showtimes are Wednesday through Saturday at 8:30 p.m., Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m. and Sunday at 6:30 p.m. Ticket prices range from $3 to $9.

NIKOLAIS DANCE THEATRE

'Abelard' to close season

Billed as one of the greatest love stories of all time, Ronald Millar's "Abelard and Heloise" will close the 1978-79 theatrical season of the Eastern Michigan University Players when it is performed March 27-April 1 in Quirk Auditorium.

Curtain time those six nights will be 8 p.m.

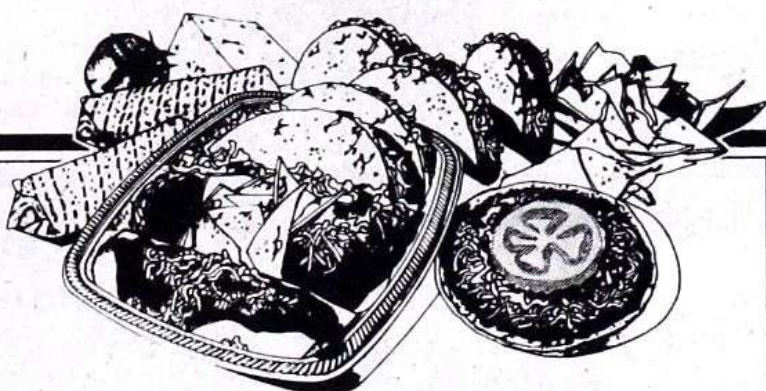

Directed by Ken Stevens, director of the EMU theater management program, the play is based on the love story of Peter Abelard, a poet, theologian and scholar, and Heloise, an abbess of a convent and a woman of passion and intellect. The love affair of the two ecclesiastical giants shook the foundations of the 12th century French Church. The play is based on the couple's historic letters and Helen Waddell's "Peter Abelard."

The play, which features a student cast of 17, utilizes contemporary staging combined with "the haunting music and lavish spectacle of Medieval Christianity to capture the beauty, tragedy and power of the star-crossed love."

Tickets for the performances are $3.50 for general admission. EMU students will be admitted for $2.25. For ticket information, call the EMU Box Office at 487-1221.

Meadow Brook sets lineup for 16th symphonic season

Meadow Brook Music Festival will open its 16th Symphonic Season on June 21 in the outdoor Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus.

Under the direction of the festival's new artistic director, Neville Marriner, the nine-week summer series will offer a wide array of internationally acclaimed conductors and artists. The Detroit Symphony Orchestra will perform during eight weeks of the Thursday-Saturday series, while one week will focus on ballet, featuring the Eliot Feld Ballet Company.

Opening the festival will be the popular young conductor, Michael Tilson Thomas, who is making his third Meadow Brook appearance. The concert will include works of Berlioz, Rachmaninoff, Satie and Respighi, and will feature the talented, Israeli-born pianist, Ilana Vered.

Thomas returns to the stage for the opening Saturday evening performance to conduct Mahler's Symphony No. 3. The program will feature alto soloist, Florence Quivar, and the combined voices of the women of the Kenneth Jewell Chorale and the Detroit Lutheran Singers, plus the Children's Choir of Christ Church, Episcopal in Grosse Pointe.

Making their first Meadow Brook appearances during the 1979 summer season are world renowned conductors, Gennady Rozhdestvensky and Leonard Slatkin. Russian-born Rozhdestvensky currently is the music director of the BBC Symphony in London and the Bolshoi Theater Orchestra.

Slatkin, who is the son of conductor-musician Felix Slatkin, has conducted all major orchestras in this country and has toured widely in Europe. He currently serves as artistic director of the Minnesota Orchestra's Summer Concert Series and will assume the position of music director of the St. Louis Symphony in September.

Three conductors who already have achieved widespread popularity among Meadow Brook audiences are returning to the festival this summer. They include Sixten Ehrling, former music director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the first artistic director of the Meadow Brook Music Festival; Kazuhiro Koizumi, the talented 29-year-old Japanese conductor who made his Meadow Brook debut last summer; and the distinguished German conductor Klaus Tennstedt, who opened the festival's 1978 season with his dynamic interpretation of Verdi's "Requiem Mass."

In August, Meadow Brook's artistic director, Neville Marriner, will conduct the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in five symphonic concerts. Marriner has served as music director of the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra, artistic director of the South Bank Festival in London, and is founder of the much-heralded Academy of St. Martin-in-the-Fields. In September, he will assume the position of music director of the Minnesota Orchestra.

Marriner will conduct one of the two Tuesday evening performances of the Detroit Symphony Chamber Orchestra being offered by Meadow Brook for the first time this summer. Both are scheduled in mid-August during the eighth and ninth weeks of the festival. The other Tuesday Chamber Orchestra performance will feature French conductor-pianist, Philippe Entremont. In addition to conducting the concert, he will perform two pieces for piano — Beethoven's Concerto No. 2 and Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals." Entremont also will be featured as pianist during one of the Thursday evening concerts, conducted by Marriner.

Other pianists performing during Meadow Brook's 1979 summer season include Ilana Vered, playing Rachmaninoff's Concerto No. 3 on opening night; Viktoria Postnikova, who will appear with her husband, Russian conductor Gennady Rozhdestvensky and will play Prokofiev's Concerto No. 2; and popular Lorin Hollander, playing Saint-Saens' Concerto No. 5.

Also, noted Austrian pianist Walter Klien will perform Concerto No. 1 by Mendelssohn; Horacio Gutierrez will appear with conductor Klaus Tennstedt and will perform the Schumann Concerto which he previously recorded with Tennstedt; and Emmanuel Ax will play Concerto No. 4 by Beethoven.

Featured violinists are Mark Piskunov, performing the Sibelius Concerto; Vladimir Spivakov of Russia, with the Beethoven Concerto; and the very gifted and popular Itzhak Perlman, playing Bruch's Concerto No. 1. Other instrumentalists include cellist Lynn Harrell, performing the Dvorak Concerto, and the renowned British horn virtuoso, Barry Tuckwell, performing Mozart's Concerto No. 3 and Strauss' Concerto No. 1.

In addition, several principle players of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will perform as soloists. They are Wesley Jacobs, tuba; Gordon Staples, violin; Muriel Kilby, piano; Donald Baker, oboe; Paul Schaller, clarinet; Robert Williams, bassoon; and Eugene Wade, french horn.

Choral works at the festival concerts will be sung by a host of international vocalists including Florence Quivar, alto; Beverly Wolff, alto; Jessye Norman, soprano; Richard Kness, tenor; Louise Russell, soprano; Dean Rhodus, tenor; and John Darrenkamp, bass.

The seventh week of the festival has been designated "Ballet Week" and will feature the return of the popular Eliot Feld Ballet Company of New York City. Programming will be announced at a later date.

In addition to the Thursday and Saturday Symphonic Series, Meadow Brook will offer a Friday Jazz Series, a Sunday Pops Series and a new Wednesday Variety Series featuring many popular entertainers.

There also will be a morning Children's Concert Series and a matinee mid-week Open Rehearsal Series.

For further program or ticket information, call the Festival Box Office at (313) 377-2010.

Brenner tickets available

Some tickets still are available for the March 23 and 24 performances by David Brenner at the State-Wayne Theater in Wayne.

The remaining tickets can be picked up directly at the State-Wayne Theatre, 35310 Michigan, as well as at Rocky's Records in Livonia Mall and Plymouth. They also may be obtained at Paul Webb Music in Ypsilanti.

Information can be obtained by calling the State-Wayne box office at 721-2100.

Brenner shares the State-Wayne spotlight with popular songstress Ursula Walker and the Buddy Budson Quartet.

The shows will take place at 8 p.m. on Friday and 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Remaining tickets are priced at $8, $9 and $10.

Apparently one of the reasons for the continued escalating demand for seats at a David Brenner performance is based on the young comic's completely fresh material. Brenner doesn't sit at a typewriter and crank out the jokes, he writes as he is performing on stage.

Now on tour

Wayne State University's Movin' Theatre, a touring show of Theatrical dance, now is available for bookings from April through June. The company consists of 10 students from the WSU theater, under the direction of Nira Pullin, choreographer and stage movement teacher. Their performance surveys the dances from medieval times are used in stage productions of plays and musicals. In the troupe are Nira Pullin (back row, from left), Daniel

Arena to host rodeo

The fourth annual Longhorn World Championship Rodeo is set to stampede in the Pontiac Silverdome on April 1 with the "World's Biggest One-Day Rodeo."

The contests are specially sanctioned by the Oklahoma-based International Rodeo Association and the single 1:30 p.m. performance will feature the top 15 cowboys and cowgirls in the world championship standings in their respective events. The purse should swell well above $40,000 this year.

There is no other rodeo like the one at Pontiac where all of the very best contestants compete in a single performance, except the International Finals Rodeo in Tulsa, Okla., each January where the world championships are determined.

For the first time in Pontiac, the rodeo company will bring its set of genuine Texas Longhorn steers. The animals, ranging up to 1,600 pounds each with horn spreads nearing 7 feet, will play an important role in the rodeo opening pageantry.

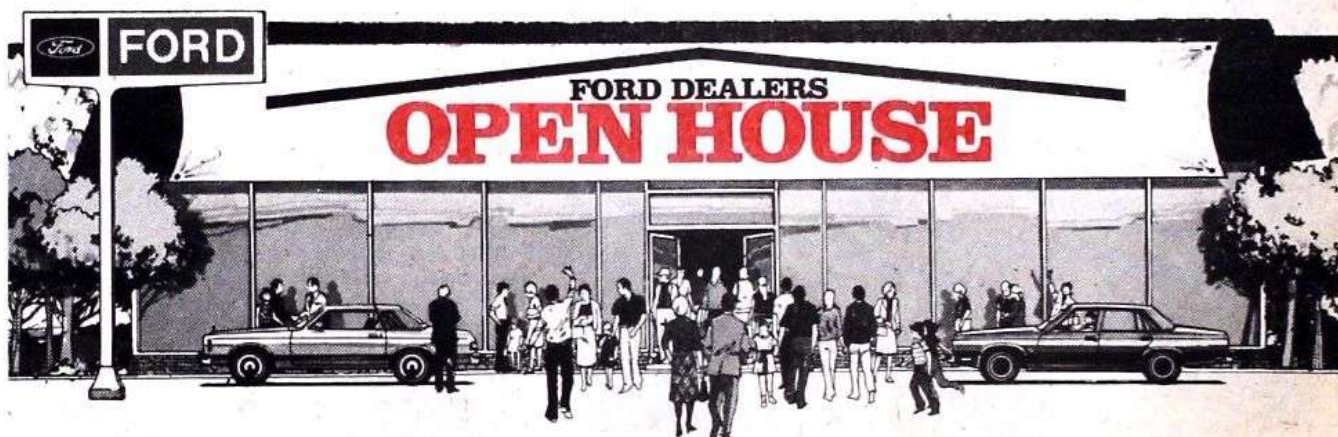

Seats for the lower Silverdome level are all reserved at $7.50; the upper level is on a general admission basis at $6. Children 12 years of age and under are half price for all seats with tickets available at the Silverdome and all J.L. Hudson's stores.

Rough riding

Cowboys will be jumping from the backs of running quarter horses to the horns of Mexican longhorned steers in the steer wrestling competition, one of six contests that will be a part of the Longhorn Championship Rodeo's "World's Biggest One-Day Rodeo" at the Pontiac Silverdome April 1.
